A Two-fold Gift

Princess Elizabeth has indicated that it is her wish that those people, cities or governments, desiring to honor her on the occasion of her wedding, should not give the gifts to her personally, but rather to the hard-pressed people of Britain. That Her Royal Highness expressed this wish occasioned little surprise; it was what one would expect of her. Nevertheless, the fact that she desired to bring some measure of comfort to the British people rather than personal aggrandizement to herself, should endear her to the people of the Dominions of the Empire.

Kelowna is endeavoring to raise $5,000 with which to purchase foodstuffs to send to Britain as a means of saying that we in the Kelowna area wish Princess Elizabeth all the happiness possible. The gift, though, will serve a twofold purpose: it will be a high tribute and a token of affection to Her Royal Highness, and, in a small degree at least, it will assist the British people to bridge the difficult period they are experiencing.

One of these must appeal to everyone in the Kelowna area. There will be some for whom the appeal of romance will be the greater. For others, the extending of a practical helping hand to those deserving and in need will be the more important.

Kelowna and district should have little difficulty in reaching its quota. It has provided greater amounts for less worthy objectives on other occasions. A house-to-house canvass is now underway in the city and district. When the canvassers call, the response should be generous—an echo from a thankful heart for all the infinite blessings which are ours in this Central Okanagan.

A Tremendous Majority

The tremendous affirmative vote for the Memorial Arena bylaw which was piled up by Kelowna ratepayers yesterday, must have been surprising to even the most enthusiastic of the bylaw's supporters and very gratifying to those who have worked for two years on or with the Memorial Committee. Another obstacle has been hurdled and tenders will now be called for construction of the building. It is understood that the architects have already been notified to speed the tenders and it is hoped that a firm bid within the planned financial limits can be obtained.

Yesterday the Kelowna Junior Chamber of Commerce saw the result of a well organized civic service campaign to "Get Out the Vote" when the largest number of voters in the city's history to vote on bylaws alone cast their ballots. The Jaycees deserve the compliments of the ratepayers.

With such enthusiastic support having been accorded the Memorial bylaw, the sponsors of the school bylaw must have been given encouragement. The ballots on this bylaw cannot be counted until Saturday evening, after Glenmore has voted. However, with the ratepayers in the happy frame of mind they were about the arena, it is unlikely that they would change their decision on the school bylaw in sufficient numbers to defeat it. The generous arena support would seem to indicate the school bylaw will meet the approval of Kelowna ratepayers.

Woman Charged With Murdering Prominent Automobile Dealer

VICTORIA, B.C.—Edith Etheline Davis, 35, was in hospital here today charged with the murder on October 9 of William Austin Davis, 55, prominent Victoria automobile dealer. A warrant was sworn out late yesterday following a coroner's jury's verdict of murder by a person or persons unknown.

Davis was found dead in his home with his jugular vein and windpipe severed by a butcher knife last Thursday night. Sitting on the chair near-by, in a semi-conscious condition, was the accused, also suffering from knife wounds in the throat.

Exact marital status of Edith Davis has not been clearly established. Police said the couple had been married in Washington State last summer but obituary notices gave Davis' widow's name as Mrs. Catherine Davis and Edward Davis, son of the dead man, said his father had never been divorced. "I had not been living with my father and my mother had not been living with him," the son testified. "The woman in the house was not my mother," he said.

GAP WIDENS BETWEEN DOUK SECTS
SOUTH SLOCAN, B.C.—Hopes of uniting rival factions in British Columbia's 17,000 Doukhobors dimmed as orthodox Douks today continued to monopolize the royal commission's probe into the bitter, strife-ridden Doukhobor problem that has sent increasing waves of terror rolling across the West Kootenay district for 40 years.

John Veregin, youthful secretary of the Union of the Spiritual Community of Christ (Orthodox) yesterday unleashed a biting attack against the Sons of Freedom group. He laid the blame for recurring outbreaks of arson and violence in the sect's settlements on them and bluntly announced that his organization would never approve union with the Sons.

"All we ask of them is to leave us in peace," he declared. He produced a letter charging Mike Veregin, leader of the small band of Sons at Hilliers, B.C., on Vancouver Island, with specifically ordering the dynamiting of a bridge and burning of halls, schools, homes and other buildings.

STRIKE NEGOTIATIONS BREAK DOWN

TORONTO, Ont.—A breakdown in negotiations between Swift Canadian Company and the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO) today left the settlement of Canada's meat packing strike hanging in abeyance. Settlement of the nation-wide walkout of 14,000 workers apparently hinged on the outcome of Swift Canadian talks as Canada Packers and Burns and Co., the other two of Canada's big three packers, had reached a measure of agreement on wage demands and other issues. The union refused to put an Ontario government formula before the members until Swift negotiations begin.

OFFERS DETAILS OF CONSPIRACY

LONDON—The Evening Standard, which reported Monday an alleged plot by Palestine terrorists to kill Foreign Secretary Bevin, today claimed to have received further details of the conspiracy which was officially denied.

The paper said threats had also been made on the lives of Hector McNeill, minister of state, and Arthur Creech Jones, colonial secretary, both of whom are in New York where extra armed F.B.I. guards have been placed around the two ministers.

ALASKA FEELS SHARP QUAKE

SEATTLE—An earthquake so sharp it knocked the needle from the University of Washington's seismograph, rocked a large area of south central Alaska late yesterday, breaking windows and knocking goods from store shelves. No casualties were reported. Apparently centering in Fairbanks, the quake sent residents hurrying into the streets. It was described as the sharpest tremor in 10 years.

EXAMINE CAN FOR HOAX

LONDON—A small tin containing grey powder which might be explosive was found today in the hall of the Commonwealth Relations Office in Downing St. and is being examined by official experts. A Scotland Yard spokesman said it "seemed to be a very amateur affair," adding it might be a hoax.

TWO MEN GAIN CONTROL OF A.F.L.

SAN FRANCISCO—A New York plumber and a Boston coal driver emerged today as undisputed bosses of the American Federation of Labor convention. Control of George Meany of the plumbers and Daniel J. Tobin of the teamsters carried with it virtual control of the 15-man policy planning executive council which will run the A.F.L.'s affairs from now on until next fall.

Together Meany and Tobin overwhelmed John L. Lewis and L. Hutcherson with their votes. While Lewis created the firestorm with his effort to block what he called a "dehydration" of the executive council, it was Hutcherson, whose "carpenters ruled the federation since 1915, who suffered the most.

C.N.R. President Visits Kelowna

En route east after visiting the Pacific Coast and witnessing the launching of the new Canadian National passenger vessel, TSS Prince George, R. C. Vaughan, C.M.G., Canadian National Railways and Steamships, accompanied by Executive Vice-President N. B. Walton, C.B.E., and other officers, visited Kelowna last week. The party inspected company facilities, fruit packing and processing plants, sawmills and orchards.

On arrival here they were greeted by twenty leaders in civic and business activity, all of whom were luncheon guests aboard the President's train. Photo, taken at rear of train, shows the group: Front row, left to right: W. A. C. Bennett, M.L.A.;

Only $1,000 Contributed So Far In Royal Wedding Drive To Purchase Food

WITH the campaign scheduled to close in less than ten days, only $1,000 has been collected so far in the Princess Elizabeth Wedding Gift drive, officials of the campaign stated this morning. The minimum objective set by the committee is $5,000, and unless Kelowna and district residents come through with substantial donations, the objective will not be reached.

With receipt books at practically every civic office, banks and stores, donors are asked to make their contributions as quickly as possible. A house-to-house canvass is also underway, and only one call will be made on householders.

It must be emphasized that the subscriptions must not drag along, as the fund must be raised by October 25 in order that foodstuffs can be purchased and shipped to Britain in time for the Royal Wedding on November 20.

Those hundreds of people who wish to show their appreciation of the Royal Family and their desire to aid the poorly fed people of Britain, should not delay in handing in their subscriptions. Forms have been sent to farmers, suggesting that they donate boxes of fruit to the fund. Many orchardists have not yet filled in these forms, and they are asked to do so without delay. Arrangements have been made for packinghouses to deduct the value of the fruit and earmark it for the fund.

Many prominent people have been speaking over the radio in support of the campaign. Last Saturday night, Alderman Jack Horn gave a brief address, and he was followed on Monday by L. R. Stephens.

Want to Help
"I feel sure that every loyal citizen of the British Commonwealth of Nations has been thrilled with the announcement of the forthcoming wedding of Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, and I also feel that every citizen who has an ounce of romance in his or her system, and who is aware of the hardships through which the people of the United Kingdom have passed and are still passing, will want to have a part in helping those people to celebrate the occasion," declared L. Prices Go Up And Hems Come Down

Opinions Differ Among Women Over New Styles But Men Are Opposed

By CONNIE SWARTZ

"The glass of fashion and the mould of form" is the topic of eager women and reluctant men, who prices go up and hems come down. Alice finds herself in Wonderland, in front of the looking-glass, goggling at what the new styles do for her. With secret misgiving she steps from her little utility number into one of the long frocks, with draped hips and hobble skirt, or with bustle and flounced-out hem. But it is usually with open satisfaction that she views the results. She looks more distinguished than she has realized. Surely she has more feminine appeal than before. She must watch her diet, from now on; those 500 brush strokes, and take more trouble with her nails.

These clothes don't act as a cover-up. They put her on the spot; in the limelight and she'll have to see to it that figure, hair and complexion are worthy of the new attention-getting outfit.

FIVE INJURED IN COLLISION ON VERNON RD.

Penticton Woman Fined for Dangerous Driving and No Driver's Licence

Five passengers of two cars involved in the 9 p.m. Sunday accident at the city limits' Vernon Road corner near the Kurfy Court were taken to hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises and allowed to go home. Two were taken to hospital by Sperling and Sons' Ambulance and the others by private cars.

Damage to both cars was estimated at $800. Mrs. Nadine Mosebar, of Penticton, driver of one of the cars, was charged in city police court yesterday with dangerous driving and with operating a car without a driver's licence. On the former count she was fined $50 and was prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for one year. On the latter charge, Police Magistrate H. Angle fined her $10.

Driver of the other car, the older car, and the least damaged, was John Miller, R.R. 2, Kelowna.

JAP "BOMB" FOUND NEAR PEACHLAND

Long Cylindrical Object Discovered on Long Mountain by George Cross

INCENDIARY TYPE?

Local Police Send Object to Department of National Defence for Identification

A long cylindrical object, about three inches in diameter and about 18 inches long, found on Long Mountain, five and a half miles southwest of Peachland, was sent this week by the Kelowna division of the B.C. Police to the Department of National Defence for identification and possible investigation.

It is believed to be a Japanese bomb that failed to explode — the incendiary type that the Nipponese were sending over with their balloons during the late stages of the war. At least one of the Japanese balloons was found in that area about two years ago, an official source disclosed.

Discovery of the "bomb" was made by George Cross. He shot at it from 100 yards but nothing happened. Picking it up, he unscrewed a long tin cover exposing the top and of a similarly shaped block of wood. In the centre of the block there was a small piece of lead metal about the size of a 50c piece.

When it was brought to the police office by Leonard Troutman, of Peachland, Police Magistrate H. Angle, who was commanding officer of the B.C. Dragons overseas, said it resembled a type of bomb used by the Germans in the last war. It weighed from 10 to 12 pounds, Mr. Troutman told Staff Sgt. W. J. Thomson, NCO in charge of local police.

JURY FINDS HIT-RUN CAR KILLED MAN

Allan Fazan Left Lying on Road - Side After Being Struck From Bicycle

SEVERE INJURIES

Witnesses Tell of Vehicle Going to Okanagan Mission At High Rate of Speed

Death as a result of injuries received in an accident was the verdict tonight in by a coroner's jury at the inquest into the death of Allan Fazan, held Wednesday afternoon. The 61-year old night watchman was returning home from Can-Am Canneries, around midnight, October 5, when he was struck from his bicycle on Pendozi near Francis Ave.

Mr. Fazan died in the Kelowna General Hospital at 2:45 a.m. Sunday, as a result of extensive fractures to the back of the skull and brain lacerations. His left leg was also fractured. The doctor expressed surprise that he reached the hospital alive, as his injuries were so severe.

PACKINGHOUSE STRIKE HITS APPLE MARKET

Car Shipments So Far This Year Are Below Those of 1946

The prolonged packinghouse strike has started to have an effect on the domestic apple market, with the result that car shipments so far this year have fallen below those of the corresponding date last year.

A. K. Loyd, general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., said that shipments so far this year have amounted to 7,712 cars, compared with 8,337 last year, and 6,166 for the same period in 1945. A total of 827 cars of apples have been shipped.

Mr. Loyd said the domestic apple market is a little sluggish mostly due to the packinghouse strike. With the movement of livestock halted, and with little or no money going into the pockets of those employed in the industry, it has had a tendency to slow the sale of apples.

In Eastern Canada, the movement is also slow due to Quebec and Ontario growers, unloading their harvests. Mr. Loyd said many Quebec crops had suffered from heavy winds, with the result the produce was flooded the market. However, Okanagan apples are still moving into the market at a higher price. There is still some seaboard movement to Brazil and Palestine, he said.

Demand for onions is fairly good, while head lettuce supplies are fair.

Total of 938 Votes Cast as 748 People Favor Bylaw—Only 176 Ratepayers Opposed—Result of $95,000 School Bylaw Will Not Be Available Until Saturday Night—War Memorial Committee Gratiated Over Support—Call Tenders Immediately—Hope Construction Will Get Underway Before End of the Year

Modern Ice Arena

KELOWNA ratepayers overwhelmingly approved the $80,000 Memorial Arena bylaw yesterday when a record number of people trekked to the polls despite the light rain which fell all day. At the same time property owners also voted on the $95,000 school bylaw, but the results of this will not be announced until Saturday evening when votes in the entire School District No. 23 will be counted. Out of a total of 1,360 registered voters, 938 cast ballots before the polls closed at 8 o'clock last night. A total of 748 people cast ballots in favor of the memorial arena bylaw, while only 176 were opposed. There were 14 spoiled ballots. A three-fifths majority of the total vote was necessary to carry the bylaw.

Members of the Kelowna and District War Memorial Committee were gratified over the overwhelming support given by the ratepayers. A spokesman for the committee stated the architects, McCarter and Nairn have been notified of the vote, and that tenders will be called immediately. It is estimated the arena will cost in the neighborhood of $180,000, and it is expected that actual construction may get underway before the end of the year. During the war memorial campaign conducted in this district about two years ago, Kelowna and district residents contributed around $100,000. At that time it was thought the arena would cost in the neighborhood of $120,000, but since that time building costs have increased. Rather than open the campaign again, the committee thought it more advisable to ask the city to contribute the balance.

L. R. Stephens, secretary of the War Memorial Committee, was gratified over the results. "It was nice to see the citizens support the bylaw so overwhelmingly," Mr. Stephens declared. "It makes the committee feel that it has the full support of the public."

Call Tenders

Mr. Stephens said tenders will be called immediately, and it is possible the contract will be awarded around the middle of November, with actual construction getting underway before the end of December.

Mr. Stephens, however, pointed out that the contractor may decide to wait a few weeks until he has sufficient making on hand to go ahead with the project.

While it is hard to say when the arena will be completed, Mr. Stephens said the committee hopes that the official opening may take place on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1948.

When completed, the arena will be the most modern in the Interior of British Columbia. It will seat around 3,000 people, while the ice surface will be regulation size.

Returning Officer George Dunn stated the heaviest vote was cast during the late afternoon. Another interesting fact, Mr. Dunn stated, was that a large number of people not on the voters' list, made affidavits at the polls.

A. K. Loyd, chairman of the War Memorial Committee, was gratified over the solid support Kelowna ratepayers gave the bylaw. "It is indeed a pleasure to know that the committee's hard working efforts have been appreciated by the public. I wish to thank the people for their support and at the same time remember the original canvassers, Liam Kane, Legion secretary, and W. Beaver-Jones, news editor, Kelowna Courier.

First prize in the provincial contest is $25, while top award in the Dominion contest is $50.

The posters were judged at the Kelowna High School Wednesday morning by Miss E. B. Walker, art teacher; Jack Treadgold, sign painter; Len Smith, Capital News; Willem Kane, Legion secretary, and W. Beaver-Jones, news editor, Kelowna Courier.

Political Pot Starts Simmering As Liberals And Conservatives Plan Nominating Conventions

THE political pot in the Yale riding is starting to simmer as a result of the resignation of Hon. Grote Stirling last week. And within the next two or three weeks, it will probably reach the boiling point as both the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties plan nominating conventions for a by-election which will take place in this constituency—probably within the next six months. The leader of the Progressive Conservative party, Hon. John Bracken will be the chief speaker at his party's convention to be held in Penticton on November 1, while Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of National Health and Welfare will be in the Okanagan the latter part of October. A Liberal convention is being planned for Wednesday, November 12, at 2:30 p.m., at Penticton, at which time a Liberal candidate will be named.

The executive of the Yale Liberal Association met in Kelowna last night, at which time plans were made for election of officers in the various Liberal associations in the riding. All local organizations will meet and elect officers within the next three weeks, in order to be in a position to attend the Yale Liberal convention in Penticton on November 12.

W. A. C. Bennett, M.L.A. (South Okanagan) is prominently mentioned as a probable Progressive Conservative candidate in the forthcoming by-election. Mr. Bennett confirmed the fact that he had been approached by a large number of people throughout the riding, of all shades of political opinion, but stated that he is considering the matter and has no statement to make at the present time.

"It is a matter that I am considering very seriously," Mr. Bennett declared. "Naturally it requires a great deal of thought, and I will make a Statement at a later date.

"Too Confused"

Commenting on the probable shake-up in the B.C. political front, Mr. Bennett, who has been asked if he would be interested in a cabinet post if one were offered under the new premiership, stated he had nothing to say at the present time. "The picture is too confused," Mr. Bennett said.

The Progressive Conservatives are looking forward to the visit of Hon. John Bracken. Mr. Bracken is scheduled to address the Kelowna Junior Chamber of Commerce in Kelowna on Friday, October 31. Following a conference with local political officials, he will go to Penticton where he will be the principal speaker at the Conservative nominating convention on November 1.

Mr. Stirling Retires

The voters in Yale constituency learned with regret last week that Hon. Grote Stirling had forwarded his resignation to the Speaker of the Commons. Ill-health had made it impossible for him to attend the last few weeks of the House of Commons session and since his return to Kelowna he has found it necessary to remain close to his own bedside. He might have continued to hold his seat without any criticism until the next general election, but such was not Mr. Stirling's way. He became convinced that he could not provide the representation in federal matters this riding might expect and, in order that the representation might be provided, he tendered his resignation.

Mr. Stirling has represented this constituency in the House of Commons since 1924 and during that period has successfully fought seven elections. A short period as minister of defense under R. B. Bennett gave him the right to the title of "Honorable" before his name.

While Mr. Stirling has been a consistent supporter of the Conservative party, the successful results of the election campaigns he fought were due to the large support he drew from voters who were normally supporters of some other political party. It is no secret that very large numbers of nominal Liberals gave their support to Mr. Stirling consistently and no higher compliment can be given the man himself. These voters knew that in Mr. Stirling they would have a representative who would take dignity, sincerity and honesty to the House of Commons and that their cause would be pleaded calmly and reasonably for bluster and bombast were no part of Mr. Stirling's repertoire.

Some, it is true, felt the very absence of these things was a reason for believing that Mr. Stirling was too gentlemanly, too patient, too broadminded to be a good representative of Yale at Ottawa, but those who worked with Mr. Stirling—and those for whom he worked—knew that in Ottawa his qualities were recognized and his character admired by members of all parties and that, though he sat in the Opposition benches, he had the friendly ear of even the Prime Minister himself.

Indeed, it was only a matter of about two years ago that Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, speaking in the House of Commons, made reference to Mr. Stirling, paying him one of the highest compliments that could be paid a political adversary, saying that of all the members of the Conservative party, Mr. Stirling was the one whom he would be honored to have in his cabinet.

Recalling this last week, the Liberal Vancouver Sun editorially suggested that it would be a fitting gesture if Mr. King could see his way clear to appoint Mr. Stirling to a seat in the Senate. "If Mr. King," the Sun said, "still thinks as highly of him as he did when he made his compliment, it would be a princely gesture to offer Mr. Stirling one of the senatorial vacancies in British Columbia. That, perhaps, is hardly practical politics, especially when there are plenty of Liberal candidates for the Senate. But it would be a gesture that might help people to have a better opinion of the Senate and it might set a new precedent in Canadian politics, leading in future to Senate appointments based on merit and service rather than on mere political affiliation."

Since practically Mr. Stirling's whole term of office was spent on the Opposition benches, there was little opportunity for him to use his undoubted abilities to their full advantage. If, as the Sun suggests, Mr. King could find it possible to recognize worth, ability and public service through the appointment of Mr. Stirling to the Senate, the Red Chamber would be enriched through the appointment and Mr. Stirling's services would not be lost to the country. The appointment would also add lustre to Mr. King.

But in Yale, it is not the fact that we have lost an excellent representative in the House of Commons that disturbs us. It is the fact that it was ill-health that caused Mr. Stirling to resign. His supporters are joined by those who voted against him in hoping that relief from his labors will enable this kindly gentleman to recover his health and to enjoy an extended evening of life.

A By-Election

The resignation of Hon. Grote Stirling from the House of Commons means that sometime before the end of next April, unless a general election is called in the interval, a byelection to fill the now vacant Yale seat will be held. The political implications of this byelection are very interesting.

The Progressive Conservatives have held the seat since 1911 with Mr. Stirling being the representative since 1924. This is the more remarkable as seldom in that period did it appear probable that the Progressive Conservative party had much of a chance of carrying the country and forming a government. That the people of Yale almost consistently elected a member of the Opposition bench is the highest possible tribute to the man himself and was made possible only through the personal support given Mr. Stirling by many nominal Liberals.

But Mr. Stirling is now out of the picture and Liberal circles now must be busy speculating upon their party's chances of carrying the seat while Conservatives must be wondering rather desperately where they can find a candidate who would draw the personal support that was accorded Mr. Stirling.

It would seem reasonable that this byelection might be called quite quickly. Should a Conservative win it, the Government would have lost no ground and would be no worse off than it is at the present time. On the other hand, should a Liberal candidate be successful, it would give a tremendous fillip to the Liberal cause and would increase the Government's slight majority in the House of Commons. If the Liberals can find a strong candidate, it would seem logical that the byelection may be called quite quickly.

There are other factors which may give the Liberals cause to hope. In recent years there has been a tremendous influx of people into the constituency from the prairies and these, in a considerable degree, are considered to be nominally Liberals. Then it is recognized that the full Liberal support of this riding has not been accorded Liberal candidates during the past few elections. With a strong candidate, Mr. Stirling's personal Liberal support might be expected to return to the Liberal fold. Then, too, since the government in power is Liberal, it might naturally be assumed that many voters would recognize that it would be more advantageous to have the sitting member on the government, rather than on the opposition benches.

But in an election, as in a horse race, there are many factors which all play a part, and results are never certain until the ballots are counted. A byelection in Yale at this time might well be considered a testing time by the parties and every party might enter a candidate. If such should prove to be the case voters would be faced with five candidates: Liberal, Progressive Conservative, C.C.F., Social Credit and Labor-Progressive.

What's The Matter, Kelowna?

The major current mystery is why Kelowna is falling down so badly this year on the Rotary Club-sponsored musical concert series. A minimum of six hundred ticket subscribers are required to bring the series of four outstanding concert artists to this city. At the time of writing the number of purchasers was still one hundred and fifty short of the required figure.

This is most difficult to understand in view of the fact that this city had the benefit of last year's experience when the four concerts that were presented were enthusiastically received by all who had had the foresight to purchase the tickets for the season. At every concert last winter there were those who desired to purchase tickets and were unable to do so. And yet, the ticket sales this year are actually below that of last year.

This is all the more surprising when it is remembered that Nanaimo sales approach the four figure mark, that Trail is well over its required quota, that Penticton is far beyond the necessary figure, that Powell River is assured of its minimum requirements. Can it be that Kelowna is less appreciative of good music than are the people of these other cities? Can it be that we in Kelowna are less appreciative of the finer things of life? That is difficult to believe. And yet the fact remains that less than five hundred people in a community of over twenty thousand appear to be interested in hearing four of the most outstanding musical presentations on the continent.

Kelownians have their own peculiar traits, however, and the answer would seem to lie in one of these. We have a great habit of procrastinating in the purchase of tickets. This has been noticeable before and would seem to be the key to the present situation. We just wait until the last minute to make our purchases. Our intentions are good but we delay implementing those intentions until the curtain is already rising. This trait of Kelownians is not only noticeable in the purchasing of tickets; it is very evident in charity campaigns when the collection is dependent upon the subscriber making the gift without being canvassed. Oh! we always come through, but we usually need a figurative kick in the pants to make us carry out our good intentions into action.

That trait would seem to be the key to the Rotary Club's present dilemma. It is known that there are many music lovers in the area who have not yet purchased their tickets. And yet, if they do not make their purchases, there is a very real danger that the concert series here will be cancelled for want of adequate support. Such action would be a definite loss to the life of the community.

The purpose behind the Rotary Club's effort is two-fold. First it brings to Kelowna something most small cities lack—the opportunity of hearing some of the outstanding musicians of the day. Secondly, the money made by the Rotary Club through its sponsorship of the concert series is devoted to the bringing of cheer into the life of old people in the community. Last year, the club's Christmas entertainment for the old age pensioners was one of the outstanding events of the year. Let's for once now snap out of our lackluster put-it-off attitude and contact some Rotarian and tell him it is our intention to support the concert series.

Autumn Retrospect

Crisp autumn days bring nostalgic thoughts to many a city man who spent his boyhood on the farm.

This was the time of year for threshing and silo filling, which not so long ago meant hard work for adults but held countless attractions for youngsters. They were fascinated by the smooth, easy power of the old-fashioned steam engine and were delighted by the gargantuan meals.

Modern machinery has brought many changes in threshing. In the Canadian West and on many farms in the central provinces, the combine has replaced the threshing machine. The individual farmer threshes his grain as he cuts it and afterwards he hauls in what straw he needs, helped by another modern contraption—the buck rake—which has brought a tremendous change in another farm operation, haying.

Gasoline tractors generally have replaced steam as the motive power for remaining threshing machines. Those old steam engines, those old threshers, those old farm youngsters. They had what appeared to be an insatiable appetite for water. And in hot weather when the windmill failed, it often took hours of manual pumping every day to produce the necessary supply.

The old-time bunkhouse on wheels for threshing workers has virtually disappeared. Now the thresher's permanent employees drive home at night in cars.

In the old days of few silo-filling rigs, work was done on a custom basis, farmers helping one another with the work. But now individual farmers—with their tractors and cutting boxes—fill their own. Or sometimes two or three farmers share ownership of a cutting box and help each other with the job.

Modern methods provide more efficient and more economical operation. They make it easier for the farm housewife who used to put special efforts into the task of preparing meals. But they have removed from farm life events which, despite the work, were enjoyable social functions. They had an educational angle too, bringing farmers together to discuss better ways of raising their crops.

But city men who left the farm and often wish they hadn't can always revel in the memories that stir in the fall.

A great deal of attention has recently been paid to the problem of vandalism among young people, and there is considerable reason for it. The amount of damage to schools, alone, to park amenities, street lights and other publicly owned property, is enormous. It is a growing problem, when allowing for the present day scale of prices. Anything that can be done to reduce this disregard of property values, and weaken the strange satisfaction which makes young people wish to smash things, is of public interest.

There is an angle of the matter, however, which is not receiving enough attention. This is in the undeveloped sense of "this and mine" which has led to the pronounced increase in petty theft among young people. Stealing on a large scale is dramatically apparent in the number of bank robberies. But to those who work among young people of all classes, it is a matter of concern that they so readily overlook the rights of others to their own property. This is not merely a question of casual observation, it is discernable in the notable rise of theft cases before the juvenile court over just the past year.

Parents who take their responsibilities seriously meet this problem in the lives of their children, especially those of high school age. There have been numerous instances lately of petty thieving in high schools throughout the country. Alarmingly little regard is said to be shown for property rights in textbooks, and personal items in like gymnasium clothing. In some schools cases have been known in which boys living near the school have been accustomed to appropriate a bicycle to go home for lunch. Finding one prudently locked, they have wrecked it. Neither owner nor any one else having seen them, little can be done about it. But the boy who might have been using his bicycle to help his family put him through school is a double victim, having lost both his bicycle and his spare-time job.

There is certainly no intention of leveling a blanket charge of theft against all young people. We believe that most of them are still decent. It is undeniably true that there is plenty of evidence, however, that the minority of careless ones is growing. It is not a local problem, either, but one which is shared by both the United States and Great Britain. Dr. William Temple, late Archbishop of Canterbury, said not long before his death that one of Britain's most serious social weaknesses was the decline of personal honesty.

Many good reasons may be cited to explain, if not excuse, the lack of clear standards on property rights. It is undeniably true that even governments have not been free of actions which done in private concerns would have brought the law into effect. But here, as in the case of life a stream can not rise higher than its source. Big thefts do not excuse little ones; they merely add to the sum of dishonesty. If we do not insist on stricter standards in the oncoming generation, social morality will decline accordingly. Both parents and schools will have to act more positively in inculcating a recognition of personal rights to personal property.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By "The Beaver"

THE NIGHT IS DARK. Rain is pattering down from the rain-laden eaves. The lights of the automobile pierce into the darkness, but the wet pavement reflects the beam from the roadway. Suddenly a person looms out of the darkness. It's too late. The driver of the vehicle plows into the object. A sudden crash. Momentarily the driver of the automobile releases his foot from the accelerator. His mind is confused. The first thought is to get away from the scene. And so the car speeds on into the darkness.

SOUNDS GRUESOME, doesn't it, but such is the setting for scores of cyclists who are killed on Canada's highways from day to day. But never in the history of Kelowna has such a mean, despicable and unpremeditated act been committed as what happened recently when an individual left the father of a two months old child and the breadwinner of a wife and six other children lying on the roadside. The victim, Allan E. Fazan, was returning to his wife and children after putting in his hours of duty at a local cannery plant when the driver of the vehicle snuffed the life from his body. He left him lying unmercifully on the roadway—his head badly crushed in, and his fractured left leg dangling, with only the thin skin holding it to the main member.

THAT ACCIDENT happened nearly two weeks ago, and today that same man is driving around the various city streets and highways on British Columbia. Even though he is apprehended by the police, his punishment will never bring back the life of a man who is responsible for the bread and butter for his wife and family.

OUT OF THE FIVE fatal accidents that have occurred in Kelowna so far this year, four of them have been on Pender Street. During the past few months, many letters to the editor have appeared in print, condemning the speeding on the street, and also the total disregard that motorists have for cyclists and pedestrians. The moment an accident of this kind occurs, one is apt to place the blame on the police for failing to patrol the main thoroughfare. I have a letter that I received this week, signed by "Just Another Working Girl", condemning the sentences handed out by the presiding magistrate. Not only is the letter libelous, but the policy of this paper is not to publish letters with an anonymous signature.

PIANIST HAS DIVERSIFIED PROGRAM

New York Times Gives Stephen Foster High Praise—To Play Here Next Week

Despite the fact that the necessary minimum sale of tickets for the Rotary Club's artist series of four concerts have not yet been sold, the first concert, the outstanding young pianist, Stephen Foster, will be presented on October 24th. If the remaining hundred and fifty tickets are not sold in the interval, it is anticipated that the remaining three concerts, Thomas L. Thomas, the National Male Quartet and Jean Watson, contralto, will be cancelled with a pro rata rebate to those who purchased tickets for the series.

However, music lovers here do have an opportunity of hearing a pianist of whom the music critic of the New York Times, writing of a New York Philharmonic Symphony concert on August 1 of this year, said:

"The final offering in the program was Mr. Foster's rendition of the Sonata in A flat major. His performance was a stimulating one. He had a wide range of dynamics and expression, and plenty of technical facility. His interpretation was unfettered by tradition, especially in the use of rubato and accents. The second movement must be singled out for praise because of the liquid tone-quality and the unobtrusive but astonishing technique."

"Mr. Foster's playing was cheered, and he had to do three encores, the 'Rakoczy March' by Liszt, Scriabin's 'Prelude for Left Hand Alone' and Chopin's 'Polonaise in A Flat'."

The first two of these encore numbers are included in Mr. Foster's local program which is as follows: Sonata in E Major, Opus 14, No. 1—Allegro, Allegretto, Rondo: Allegro comodo, by Beethoven.

Sonata in B flat minor, Opus 35 by Chopin—Allegro, Scherzo, Marche funebre, Presto.

Waldesrauschen, Valse Oubliee and Rakoczy March by Liszt.

Clair de lune by Debussy; Feux d'Artifice (Fireworks) by Debussy; Suggestion Diabolique by Prokofiev; Prelude in C sharp minor for left hand alone by Scriabin; sympathetic composer of "Farewell," ending, "I find would leave a song within your heart."

A fine of $5 was imposed in city police court October 3 on Jisa Oishi for operating a motor vehicle without a muffler.

Charged in city police court October 3 with parking in front of a lane in such a manner as to partially block traffic, Sgt. L. F. Fumano was fined $2.50.

Musical Recital Well Received By Kelowna Listening Group

Joan Ramsay and Joan Gabriel Present Concert for Benefit of Music Lovers

Some 60 invited guests were privileged to enjoy one of the treats of Kelowna's musical history, when Mrs. Paddy Cameron, president of the Listening Group, threw her home open on Friday night to students and a few others.

Had Kelowna owned a good community piano, the recital could have been public, with hundreds enjoying the artistry of Joan Ramsay, 19, Winnipeg soprano, and Joan Gabriel, 17, Regina pianist, travelling in the Young Artist Series. As it was, they were presented in ideal solo concert conditions, in the gracious drawing-room of the Camerons' Galschen home, and with a grand piano upon which any artist would be happy to play.

The audience was won at the start by the simplicity of the girls and their pleasing stage presence. The blond pianist, in ice blue satin, the brunette singer in ice blue tulle, could not have presented a more engaging picture. And as the program unfolded, it was revealed that here were artists of exceptional talent, undoubtedly with a great future.

Bach's "Happy Flock" from the Birthday Cantata, made a perfect opening number, sung as though it were one of Jean's favorite songs. "Have you seen but a white lily grow" followed with John Dowland's "Fine Knacks for Ladies" and Handel's "Care Selve".

French Accent

In a pretty French accent, Miss Ramsay created the nostalgic mood of "Connais-tu le pays?", showing her love and understanding for opera and drama. From "Un Ballo in Maschera," Verdi's contrasting gay and piquant "Saper Vorreste" showed the versatility of the artist.

"Remembrance," by Frederick Keel to lovely verse by Katharine Tynan, Hubert Parry's "Maiden" to words by Mary Coleridge, "Green sleeves" arranged by Vaughan Williams, "When light goes rolling round the sky," by Ireland, were beautifully interpreted numbers in the singer's last group. Winnipeg's well-loved W. H. Anderson was the sympathetic composer of "Farewell," ending, "I find would leave a song within your heart."

The audience could not bear to let Jean go, and she good-naturedly sang Schumann's "Hat of Green" and a Scottish love song, "My Ladye".

The singer's breath control was excellent, her enunciation perfect, her intelligent understanding of the songs, a joy; and, in every case, she created perfectly the mood of the composition. Support from the pianist was more than ample, and the girls, although they had only practised together for a week before the tour, did beautiful ensemble work, of great flexibility, with sonata-like results.

Joan Gabriel began with Beethoven's "Appassionata Sonata" played with amazing technical skill, lovely tone, and surprising maturity, qualities displayed throughout her program. Her delicate precision in the first movement, her big tone, even tempo; the dramatic contrast between first and second movements; her accuracy, betokened unusually fine training. Her rhythmic playing was a joy, and, like the singer, she brought intelligence and sensitive understanding to each composition, and everything she played was interesting.

In her first group, Prelude in G sharp minor by Rachmaninoff was so lovely, one wonders why it is so rarely heard. Her "Reflets dans l'eau" was a highlight, for many. Joan has the poetic Debussy feeling. She might have been his "Girl with the flaxen hair", so easily does she create the mood. Liszt's "Dance of the Gnomes" provided a happy-go-lucky contrast to the more serious mood of the preceding number.

Chopin Player

In her last group, Joan showed herself as a straight-forward Chopin player, without too much rubato. Her Polonaise in C sharp minor was big, strong, and full of feeling. She tackled at the end of the program, the more difficult, but a taxing program, but it would be hard to improve on her interpretation and execution.

The "False Note Study," and Etude in D Major, were especially lovely, the latter not as well-known as some, requiring a terrific right hand stretch in the arpeggio passages, which were "etincelant" in effect.

Joan finished with the Ballade in G minor she had played at the P. and R. recital in Banff, in August. This, for many, was only second in enjoyment to the Debussy, and played as a true artist would play it. There is a great deal of great tenderness, as well as passages of power and passion.

Joan's unassuming manner and total lack of mannerisms at the piano is reminiscent of Horowitz. The Kelowna Branch of the Music Teachers' Association, under Mrs. A. J. Pritchard, is to be congratulated for presenting these musicians of innate good taste in their beautifully-built program; girls who were as lovely to look at as to listen to, and will be remembered by the audience with gratitude, for an evening of artistic delight.

Joan Ramsay, Winnipeg soprano, has dark hair, blue eyes, and a fair skin, inherited from her Scottish parents. Her mother, a Highland Scot, sang and played the violin. Joan began as a pianist, doing well in the famous Winnipeg Festival, but began to sing seriously to singing at 14 and 15. She took a summer course with John Goss in Vancouver, and that decided her to continue. She likes opera and dramatics, and took part in high school and university productions.

She won the National Jewish Women's Scholarship and the United Scottish Scholarship and was chosen to represent the Manitoba Registered Music Teachers' Association in the Young Artist Series. She has been asked to compete in the "Singing Stars of Tomorrow" program. Her singing teacher is Gladys Whitehead, to whom W. H. Anderson dedicated his "Farewell" with words by Noreen Moore. Dr. Anderson, famous conductor of the Winnipeg Choralists, who has visited Kelowna many times, hopes to retire here to live.

Concerto Work

Joan Gabriel, Regina pianist, has done solo and concerto work with the Regina Symphony Orchestra; and for three consecutive years has played at the Kelowna School recital. She has won many Festival awards, the Orpheus Scholarship, CKCK Scholarship Auditions Award and Banff School of Fine Arts Scholarship under Max Pirani. Joan studies with Miss Dorothy Deane of Canada's foremost piano teachers. Joan inherits music from her father's family from Alsace-Lorraine. Her aunt, Emilia Rublow, married to a Russian, is a concert artist in Europe and composer, who has a degree in composition from a Russian conservatory. Joan's mother is also musical.

The girls, travelling in the Young Artist Series, are giving 15 recitals, from Regina to the Island.

W.I. OFFICERS AT PEACHLAND ARE RE-ELECTED

PEACHLAND—The executive of the Peachland Women's Institute was unanimously returned to office at the annual meeting held last Friday.

Officers are: President, Mrs. J. Cameron; vice-president, Mrs. A. E. Miller; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. G. W. Munro; directors Mrs. P. C. Gerrie and Mrs. S. M. McDonald.

Mrs. Cameron said that in view of the fact she had held the chair for such a short period, she was not in a position to give a president's report, but remarked that the Institute had had a successful year. Reports of committees also were omitted.

Mrs. C. T. Redstone spoke of an appeal from the Red Cross for draperies, cushion covers, table and bed linen to send to women in Great Britain.

A tag day for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind held last month, netted $35. It was decided that the W.I. will continue to sponsor the Fall Fairs, but various organizations in town will be asked to co-operate.

Mrs. Cameron thought that needle work, rugs and other articles should be made in plenty of time so that the community could send an exhibit to other expositions as well as displaying them at the Peachland Fair.

Mrs. J. Bush and Mrs. F. E. Witt were hostesses and served tea.

LIMIT BOND DRIVE SALES TO $1,000

Many Firms Instituting Payroll Savings Plan for Benefit of Employees

OPENED TUESDAY

Sales of Canada Savings Bonds Being Made Through Banks, Investment Firms

OTTAWA — At a last minute check-up on arrangements for the sale of Canada Savings Bonds, which began on October 14th, Graham Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada, said he was satisfied that every Canadian would have a convenient opportunity to invest. Mr. Towers stated that the great majority of business executives evidently intended to operate the payroll savings plan for the benefit of employees.

"Sales to the general public," said Mr. Towers, "will be made by official agencies including approximately 3,000 branches of chartered banks and 675 investment dealers, trust and loan companies and other savings institutions. In addition, authorized investment dealers have appointed approximately 1,200 sub-agents to act for them in making widespread distribution of Canada Savings Bonds."

Limit Purchases

Officials of the Bank of Canada stated that the effect of the limit of $1,000 placed on holdings in any one name would reduce the total dollar sales in comparison to the results obtained last October when sales approached the five hundred million dollar mark.

It was expected, however, that the number of purchases might equal the unexpected response to the First Series of Canada Savings Bonds when over one million two hundred thousand applications were recorded.

Shipments of supplies to all official sales agents and to more than fifteen thousand payroll savings establishments have been completed on schedule. It is evident from supplementary requisitions received that official sales agents look for widespread demand from the general public and that many payroll savings establishments expected participation by their employees to exceed participation in the first series. An interesting feature revealed by reports is that some companies which did not operate the payroll savings plan last year have decided to install it this year.

The second series of Canada Savings Bonds bears interest at 2 3/4 per cent for a period of ten years. A limit of $1,000 has been placed on holdings in any one name. All bonds are registered in the owner's name but may be cashed at any time for full face value, plus interest, at any bank in Canada.

GOOD CAGE YEAR FOR SUMMERLAND

SUMMERLAND—Plenty of material is available for two strong intermediate basketball squads in Summerland this season, the annual meeting of the Summerland Basketball Association learned last week.

The nucleus of last year's inter B's is moving up to the inter A class this season and is being joined by John Vanderburgh who played the cage sport last year with Vancouver College, and Don Rand and Jimmy Thompson of last year's senior aggregation.

There are nearly 20 youngsters ready to vie for positions on the intermediate B squad. Several of last year's players are ready to play senior again. Participation of female cage artists is still uncertain.

Hockey Picture Obscured As Plans Held Up Owing To Lack Of Ice, Interest

Those Who Took Active Part Last Year in Fostering Game Decline to Do It Again—Little Likelihood Of Intermediate Team — Kelowna Players Going to Vernon—Intend to Keep Hockey Alive Among Boys

THE hockey picture for Kelowna for the coming season is anything but clear—or a busy looking one, either. When asked about the intermediate plans, W. C. Moebes, president of the Kelowna Hockey Club, said Kelowna's chances of icing a team this year are not very bright. He was unable to say whether or not a general meeting of the club would be called this month.

Eddie Witt, who for several weeks has been dealing with four members of last year's Canadian intermediate champions, the Coleman, Alta., Grands, said last week he had advised them Kelowna would not be able to use them this year. He said it appeared unlikely that the four men could be given jobs here.

"Duke" Kwasnie, huge defence-man with the champs, was one of the men slated to come to the Okanagan. Witt believed he may still come to the Valley this year.

Need Ice Here

Lack of sufficient interest among sportsmen and lack of sponsors are partly blamed according to many keen followers. But most of the blame is put on the absence of ice here. Hockey boosters are hoping next year will be different.

Asked if he would play with Vernon this year, Eddie replied he wasn't sure. Earlier, it was believed if Kelowna did not have an intermediate team, Witt, Bud Gourlie, Glen O'Shaughnessy and some others would try to make the Vernon line-up.

"Right now I don't know whether to play intermediate or try managing or coaching a kids' team," said Eddie. "We've got to keep the kids going to keep hockey alive."

Ian MacKay, who last year acted in the capacity of business manager and major-domo, said he was definitely out of the picture this year. "I am too busy to have anything at all to do with hockey," he said.

George Yochim was even more emphatic. The man who managed the Kelowna Kodiaks to their valley championship in the mid-west field, declared flatly he would have "nothing to do with hockey this year." Kodiak coach-trainer of last year, Bud Fraser, was not available for comment at the time of this writing, but during the late summer he remarked he had had enough of it last year.

So all in all, the boys who were pushing things last year seem to be leaving it to someone else. There doesn't appear to be much chance the way things look at present, for the big boys playing under Kelowna colors. But with the kids—well, that remains to be seen.

Canada is the world's largest producer of asbestos.

Specially Written for the Courier By FRED KERNER

That grand game of rugby may bid farewell to the Maritimes. The famed Caledonia team—a tough bunch of miners who boasted of the smoothness of the playing field: "It hasn't a blade of grass on it!"—is going out of existence and with it will probably die the last of the British game in the provinces east of Quebec.

Reason for the team's disbanding was not given, but undoubtedly the invasion of the Maritimes by Canadian football is the cause. The team has had a winning record as long as a marathon race and club officials would probably have to use only two hands to count their team's losses on their fingers for the last 50 years.

The Caledonia game—that less strenuous and more bone-breaking adaptation of the U.S. grid game—has overtaken two old Maritime clubs, Dalhousie University and the Halifax Wanderers, and that leaves the Caledonians without any foes.

Holders since 1932 of the McMurtry Cup for Maritime supremacy and since 1937 of the MacTier Canadian challenge trophy, the Eastern Canadian crown, Caledonia's remnants will henceforth be known as "Glacier Bay."

The Bayers will carry Caledonia's fight into the Canadian game of football—a warning to teams such as Toronto Argonauts that the Maritimes has adopted your style of play and "watch out!"

When retired from his coaching task this year he turned the reins over to young George McNeil who knows the Canadian game. But it was more than just turning over the reins—with them went a great tradition and a little lesson on what built that tradition.

"Take the required number of men just off from a hard day's work in the coal mines, put them through their paces an hour each day, every day, every week and then tell them to win—they will."

That is the formula McNeil used and it young McNeil can get the same results as the rugged mentor did, he it well said: "Watch out!"

Errors in baseball often can be costly, but the error of First Baseman Fred Thomas, of Windsor, Ontario, are still red over an error he pulled a few days ago.

Thomas' team, Windsor Ryancretes, were playing London Majors in the final game of the Ontario senior ball series. It was the ninth inning and the game was tied 0-0.

A London batter managed to get on base and work his way around to third when Thomas pulled his boner allowing the Londoner to score and take the series.

Prize story of the golfing season comes from Hamilton, Ont., where a golfer managed to play the last 10 holes on his home course in a single stroke.

Teeling off on the ninth, his ball hooked over to the nearby 18th green and rolled right into the cup. That's what we'd call a hole-in-one to end all holes in one.

When Jack Sharkey was fighting he was known as the Carrulous Gob. He no longer is a fighter and no longer a gob, but he's still pretty garrulous and he has a lot to say about the fight game as it is today.

Whether or not this is a reflection on his opinion of boxing, we can't say, but Jack senior wants Jack junior to keep out of the boxing game. The young Jack, a strapping lad from snapshots we were shown, is currently playing football for Boston College and hopes to be a defenceman in the N.H.L. some day.

Sharkey, aside from running a restaurant—like Jack Dempsey—year-old son to make a defence berth with the N.H.L. club and Canadians' Coach Dick Irvin is said to be interested.

The lad stands six-foot-four in stocking feet and tips the scales at well over 200 pounds. Sharkey, like most people who are in the boxing game or were at one time, is in on the white-hot search he claims he's found a great prospect in Northern Quebec—no names mentioned. But its record for he feels that in going hard work—"you have to live, sleep down in cat boxes as the world's greatest heavyweight champion bring him along properly."

The current state of affairs in the fight game is saddening to the Boston restaurateur. He believes too many minor-ills are injuring the sport at the moment, but despite all that he felt the business would thrive so long as good professionals were continually filling the ranks from the bottom up.

Manhattans holding on to their lead by sweeping their set with the hapless Fumerton's, wrapped up the team honors of the night, too, rolling a 912 in their third game and a total of 2534. Joan Carew, of Royalties, for the third week in a row grabbed the high single with her 255. But this time she added the triple to her ribbons, too, her 613 besting runner-up 602 of Williams of the McGavin's team.

The talk got around to young Jack and we were happy to hear that Sharkey is an admirer of our favorite hockey team—Montreal Canadiens. Jack senior wants his 19-year-old son to make a defence berth with the N.H.L. club and Canadians' Coach Dick Irvin is said to be interested.

The lad stands six-foot-four in stocking feet and tips the scales at well over 200 pounds. Sharkey, like most people who are in the boxing game or were at one time, is in on the white-hot search he claims he's found a great prospect in Northern Quebec—no names mentioned. But its record for he feels that in going hard work—"you have to live, sleep down in cat boxes as the world's greatest heavyweight champion bring him along properly."

The current state of affairs in the fight game is saddening to the Boston restaurateur. He believes too many minor-ills are injuring the sport at the moment, but despite all that he felt the business would thrive so long as good professionals were continually filling the ranks from the bottom up.

Kelowna Ski Club's
Bid For 1948 Valley
Ski Finals Accepted

THE Kelowna Ski Club's bid for the 1948 Okanagan Ski championships was accepted at the annual general meeting of the Valley ski zone held in Summerland last Saturday.

At the meeting, attended by over 100 skiers from member clubs in Osoyoos, Oliver, Penticton, Summerland, Kelowna and Vernon, Verne Ahrens, Kelowna, was again elected zone president. Other officers elected were: Howie Morgan, Kelowna, secretary-treasurer; Carl Agar, technical committee; Fred Waterman, Kelowna, publicity; and Carl Wylie, membership committee.

Peter Vajda, chief instructor for the Canadian Amateur Ski Association and one of Canada's best known skiers, was the guest speaker of the evening. Arrangements were concluded with Vajda for the inauguration of a ski school for valley instructors to be held at Silver Star, Vernon, between December 7-14 next.

Vajda gave the meeting an interesting talk on skiing and ski technique and emphasized that skiing is no way the dangerous sport it is often made out to be. A few fundamental rules are followed by both beginner and expert. He stressed the importance of control as the mark of the expert.

Anyone, he said, can point 'em downhill at a mile a minute, but it is the good skier who can stop or turn at will. No wise skier will go faster than his ability permits, said the instructor.

No one style of skiing can be applied to all skiers, Vajda continued. A competent instructor will judge which particular style is suited to his pupil. The Silver Star ski school will teach a combination of the Swiss and Arberg techniques.

The meeting welcomed two new clubs to the zone, Osoyoos and Oliver, and concluded with color films of skiing in the Okanagan.

Vajda, who flew in from Vancouver last night, said he was most enthusiastic over the possibilities of the Kelowna Ski Bowl. Vajda has seen all the best ski terrain in Canada and said that the bowl and its development is worthy of a much longer established club.

Major Meets Here

Kelowna, he said, could easily make a bid for major Canadian honours such as the Western or Dominion championships, as the terrain is ideally suited to a big event.

In company with club officials, Vajda spent some time at the bowl taking contours and levels for a hairpin turning downhill run which would be worthy of the best skiers in the country. This spectacular run would involve a drop of 2,500 feet in a distance of little over a mile, taxing the skill of the expert and giving spectators the thrill of a lifetime.

Vajda is convinced that the future of Canadian skiing and top rate skiers lies in the west with its perfect terrain for all branches of the sport. The Kelowna Ski Bowl, with a chalet to accommodate visitors, would provide an ideal winter tourist attraction.

Arena Committee Hopeful Indoor Swim Pool May Be Added Later

Followers of the sport that has done more to put Kelowna on the international sports map than all other sports—swimming and diving—may take heart. Frequent efforts on the part of the Osoyoos Swimming Club to get an indoor pool may not have achieved the desired results, but at least the matter is getting discussed in the right places.

Recently City Council received another of the many letters from the swimming club asking that provision be made for an indoor pool in the civic arena. Council turned the letter over to the arena committee.

Apparently the war memorial committee, in charge of getting the arena started, had considered the subject from a few angles—at least, if not from every one. The committee secretary, L. R. Stephens, at a monthly meeting of the Kelowna Athletic Round Table last Thursday, was reported as saying that figures for the cost of an indoor pool had been obtained but for the present, the additional expense could not be considered.

Some Hope

But it is not all black. The official attitude at the committee is understood to be that when the arena is in operation and if it is found to be a paying operation, which it (the committee) has every reason to believe it will be, then a swimming pool is to be one of the first additions.

While the arena construction was the main single item under review at KART's meeting, several other matters came up for examination. One was a report on the proposed bicycle club. The spokesman said that in spite of much advertising about the second meeting, an insufficient number of adults turned up to take on the responsibility of administration. The committee is still active, it is understood, and is believed planning to call another general meeting later. About 120 cyclists, most of them young boys and girls, attended the last meeting.

Foresee Banner Year

A brief report from the Kelowna Basketball Association representative showed all teams are shaping up well and strengthened the growing belief that Kelowna was in for a banner year. This was borne out still more when it was revealed the senior B's were being equipped in completely new uniforms through the generosity of a local business man.

The Kelowna Rowing Club delegate told the meeting that the proposed rummage sale plans for raising funds for the purchase of new shells had been dropped. Instead,

Victoria Legion Captures Senior "B" Lacrosse Championship

CLOSE GAME

Coast Team Takes Both Games by 15-8 and 14-8 Scores to Win Title

Victoria Legion protected their laurels as B.C. champions in the senior B lacrosse division last week by defeating Vernon Tigers two straight in the finals at Vernon last week. Legion scored a 14-8 victory on Friday night and repeated with a 15-8 win on Saturday.

Tigers made a light of it in the first game, downing the Legion in the third quarter. But during the last 15 minutes of play Victoria punched six goals past Stan Hammond, who appeared to be having an off night. B. Long in the Victoria net was nigh unbeatable.

Vernon made a valiant bid Saturday night to take the second game and force a third and deciding one, but the defending champs had a definite edge all the way. "Irish" Conley was chief Vernon goal-getter Friday with three while Saturday, Ab Mills, Bob Monahan and Don Thompson got two apiece for the Okanagan-interior titlists.

Tidball, Penticton Cold Storage Lockers, reports very few deer have been brought in since the first of the season. Some of those he has received have been shipped in from the Kettle River area.

WILL INSTAL MORE LIGHTS AT PEACHLAND

PEACHLAND — Nine additional street lights and one more luminaire on the main street will be installed in Peachland within the near future. It was decided by the municipal council which met last Thursday.

A B.C. Power Commission representative waited on the council in regard to installing more street lights on the back streets in the town area and to plan where they should be installed.

It was revealed that five more people have made application for power on Princeton Avenue.

L. Trautman also waited on the council regarding fire fighting equipment. He thought that a 150 gallon tank on a trailer, carrying 500 feet of hose and two large hand fire extinguishers, would be satisfactory. Loaded with water, it would not weigh more than 1,500 pounds. Mr. Trautman said the trailer could be hooked to the rear of a light delivery, and that it was simple to operate.

Reeve A. E. Miller, however, thought that equipment should be obtained that would be efficient up the hill as well as in town. He thought that information should be obtained as to how this type of fire equipment would effect insurance rates. Offer to purchase the old Kelowna fire brigade truck was withdrawn a few weeks ago.

Council received a complaint over horses and cattle being allowed to run around in orchards, damaging property.

Wedding Gift Fund Municipal Clerk C. C. Inglis stated that posters and receipt books had been received for the Kelowna and District Princess Elizabeth Wedding Gift Fund. These have been distributed around the community.

Several representatives of the Peachland council were appointed to attend the quarterly meeting of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association which was held in Armstrong on Wednesday.

Council received offers for three lakeshore lots. These were accepted subject to a small adjustment and the building bylaw.

Councillor F. Topham, jr., spoke of parking signs and regulations, and thought these should be enforced in the municipality.

A brief regarding school taxation was discussed and several points will be presented to the commission when it meets in Penticton next month.

Councillor C. F. Bradley told council that about ten loads of gravel would be necessary to fill several bad spots on the road, while ditches need to be cleaned out.

Troop photographs that were taken during the summer camp are now available, and will be on hand for distribution to those who ordered them, at the coming Scout meeting. A few extra ones were printed, so that those who neglected to place an order may obtain a copy if they wish.

While in Vancouver recently, the Scoutmaster visited the Provincial Headquarters in the B.C. Mining Building, and talked with the Executive Commissioner, Mr. Jordan. He hopes to be able to attend the Okanagan Patrol Leaders Conference, which is to be held in Rutland this winter. While at the office, the Scoutmaster bought a supply of the new Provincial Emblems, for distribution to the troop.

Scouts who were listening to the "News Round-up" on the CBC one night last week heard a description of the new Scout winter uniform, as given by Maj.-Gen. Spry, the Chief Executive Commissioner for Canada, and heard the comments of a Winnipeg Scout. From the description given it seems to be modelled on a ski costume, and includes a peaked cap. The color is given as "forest green." Purpose of the new uniform is to get more Scouts out of doors in the winter months, and provide an outfit that can be used for Scouts and for school wear, too.

Scouting terms, as scout training came in for some publicity during the recent successful search for Nicky Hush, local hunter, and at one time a member of the Rutland Cubs and Scouts. The formation of the "arrow" and "End of the Trail" signs by the searchers, in signalling the aeroplanes were noteworthy ways of using the well-known Scout "Signs" each Tenderfoot Scout has to learn. Incidentally, Andy Duncan, pilot of the plane, was a former member of the Rutland Troop, as were a great many of the searchers.

11,400 MORE HOGS HALIFAX (CP) — Nova Scotia farmers achieved the greatest percentage increase in hog production in Canada in the period up to June 1 compared to a year ago. With 59,900 porkers on hand June 1, the increase was 23.5 per cent, or 11,400 more than at the same time last year.

GREEKS LIKE CANADA WINNIPEG (CP) — Greeks think more of Canada than any other country, and would like to come here to live, George Vlassis, director of information for the Greek embassy in Ottawa, said recently. This could be done due to the manpower shortage in that country.

LIBERALS MAY END COALITION A. W. GRAY SAYS

Commenting upon the Liberal executive meeting in Vancouver on Thursday, October 2, A. W. Gray said that the meeting was rather a tame one. All controversial matters were postponed to the provincial convention, set for December 9, 10 and 11, and the executive listening to Premier Hart's valdictory speech, passing a number of complimentary and non-contentious resolutions.

Gray forecasts a "hot time" at the convention, when the subject of coalition will be thrashed out, as well as the choosing of a new leader. Hon. Gordon Wismer, of Vancouver, Byron "Boss" Johnson, of New Westminster, and Hon. E. T. Kenney, of Skeena, were the names most frequently heard mentioned.

Mr. Gray expressed the view that there is no possibility whatever that Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Conservative leader would succeed Hart as premier. The leader of the Liberal party will be the premier, or there will be no coalition—in fact, there might not be any coalition, in any case, after the convention," he stated.

A significant fact, he felt, indicative of the feeling of the delegates at the executive meeting was that the Hon. T. D. Pattullo received far more of an ovation than did anyone else attending and speaking there. An invitation was extended to both Hon. Gordon Wismer and "Boss" Johnson to visit the valley and address Liberal meetings.

FUNERAL RITES ARE HELD FOR J. A. SAUCIER

Kelowna lost one of its oldest pioneers when Joseph Andre Saucier passed away at his home, 1009 Laurier Avenue, on October 9. The first trans-Canada railway had only been completed a year when Mr. Saucier came to Kelowna in 1889.

Born in 1866, the year before Canada became a confederation of provinces, Mr. Saucier was only 20 years old when he first saw the Okanagan. He worked first for his uncle, Joseph Christian, in South Kelowna. A few years after working for several farmers in the district, he pre-empted on land a short distance south of the present South Kelowna school.

In 1891 he married Elinor Lawrence. Six of the seven children are still living, a son Bert having been killed in the First World War. The late Mr. Saucier was struck by partial paralysis 22 years ago and from that time up to his death had been bed-ridden.

Requiem Mass was said by Very Rev. W. E. McKenzie of the "Church of The Immaculate Conception" Saturday, October 11. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery, Okanagan Mission.

Surviving are his wife, who is probably the oldest living person in Kelowna—she was here before her husband came to the city from his birthplace near Montreal—and four sons: Frank and Andrew, of Kelowna; Joseph, of Port Alberni; and Daniel, of Vernon; two daughters, Mary and Mrs. O. Burke, of Kelowna; and one sister in Montreal.

4 JURY FINDS

15 feet from the large pool of blood; a lunchbox and flashlight strewn by the roadside, suggested that the body had been carried some distance by impact with a car travelling at a high rate of speed.

Found Body

Bud Thompson, taxi driver, had left his fare at West Ave. just after midnight and was returning to town on Pendozi.

He saw a flashlight shining by the road, I stopped the car and saw the man lying beside the road. His head was on the edge of the pavement. I also saw the bicycle 30 or 40 feet south of the body, off the pavement, in the gravel. I flagged down the first car, coming out from town. Then I went to a house on the corner of Pendozi and Francis and phoned Constable Hugh Drybrough. I left it to him to call an ambulance. When I got back there was a big crowd," Mr. Thompson stated.

Edward and Donald Jost, driving with friends from Okanagan Mission, just after midnight, saw the bicycle and body and Bud Thompson's cab. Donald went for blankets to cover the unconscious man. They had met a car going at about 60 miles per hour, toward the Mission, with extra bright headlights, a few minutes before. Other witnesses testified to having heard the screech of a car and seeing it flash by, and to the fact that it had a flickering tail light.

CITY TO GET $8,360 FROM B.C. GOV'T

Government Will Reduce Municipal Share of Unemployment Relief Costs

The City of Kelowna will benefit to the extent of $8,360.09 as a result of the provincial government's policy to reduce the municipal share of unemployment relief costs. The announcement was made this week by Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Finance.

Mr. Anscomb recalled that British Columbia had received a debt cancellation in respect to unemployment relief from the dominion of $3,342,000 or 24.5 per cent of the $34,000,000 borrowed for direct relief.

Mr. Anscomb stated that as only a few municipalities borrowed from the province for all or part of their share of direct relief, it was decided that the only equitable method of apportioning the grant would be on a pro-rata basis, according to the ratio that the ten-year cost of direct relief on the provincial approved scale in each municipality was to the total cost for the ten-year period to all municipalities.

Actually, it means that in Kelowna's case, the municipality did not borrow as much money as other points, and therefore the rebate is less.

Insofar as Vernon is concerned, the city is getting $12,310.68; Penticton, $10,369, and Kamloops $20,702. A total of $2,680,000 is being refunded to the various B.C. municipalities.

The sum, Mr. Anscomb said, will be paid as follows:

Firstly, to reduce any outstanding relief loans secured by a treasury note to the provincial government, without any specific agreement as regards payment; secondly, to set up retirement funds for the redemption of any unemployment relief debt which had been and remained funded; thirdly, to reduce sinking fund shortages and fourthly, for capital purposes.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES HELD AT PEACHLAND

PEACHLAND — Harvest festival services were held in Peachland and Westbank United Churches last Sunday and large congregations were on hand. The pulpit and front of each church was suitably decorated with fruit and vegetables as well as flowers in profusion, together with local foliage.

Rev. H. S. McDonald conducted both services, while Mrs. S. K. McKay and Miss Gwyneth Reece sang a duet at the Westbank service. The Women's Association at both churches took charge of the decorating and created a pleasing effect for the occasion.

The Women's Association of the United Church held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Z. C. Witt on Wednesday evening, Mrs. J. P. Long, as vice-president, conducted the meeting. Plans were outlined for the bazaar to be held near the end of November. The anniversary date of the congregation having been set for November 2, a committee consisting of Mrs. John Cameron, Mrs. W. D. Miller, Mrs. J. P. Long, and Mrs. H. S. McDonald were appointed to make arrangements for a social evening as part of the anniversary celebrations.

The Wolf Cub Packs have assembled again after the holiday season. At Westbank there are 18 Cubs, with Rev. H. S. McDonald as Cubmaster, while the pack at Peachland has 19 members with Mrs. Z. C. Witt as Cubmistress. Meetings are again held weekly in the basement of the United Church.

The Boards of the Peachland and Westbank United Churches are making plans to complete the finish of basements of the churches. Plans at present call for a cement floor in the basement at Westbank, a gift of land in Glenmore for the preceding month or more. It is not necessary for their names to be on the annual voters' list.

At Peachland, it is hoped to finish the walls and ceiling for Sunday School and young people's activities. These improvements will allow full play for mid-week work with all ages in the community.

The United Church, in cooperation with the Parent-Teacher Association, has instituted a Handicraft Club for boys, and it now meets each Tuesday evening in the basement of the church. Rev. H. S. McDonald is in charge of the Club while Kurt Doml and Frank Bradley have volunteered their services as instructors in woodwork. It is hoped to commence classes in metal work as well as leathercraft at a later date.

Rev. H. S. McDonald journeyed to Kelowna on Sunday afternoon and led a discussion group in connection with the Kamloops-Okanagan Presbytery Young People's Rally.

A ceremony of interest to Peachland took place at the Westbank United Church, Ottawa, on September 22, when Leverage Diane, daughter of F/Sgt. W. Borton and Mrs. Borton was christened by Rev. Robert M. Frayne, B.A.B.D., Principal Chaplain (P) R.C.A.F., Rockcliffe, Ont. Mrs. K. Fernyough, formerly of Peachland, was Godmother, and John Pedlar, Godfather.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FVORS MARGARINE

Editor, Kelowna Courier:
There seems to be some agitation at the Coast regarding the sale of margarine, a nut butter product. A Vancouver alderman made the statement that the reason we did not get it in Canada was that there was a certain clique that was having its own way about doing things far too long, and if Canadian people would only wake up and demand their rights, we could get margarine. It is good for shortening and now that vegetable shortening is off the market again, it is certainly too bad margarine is not available.

When the writer was living in South Dakota some years ago, near the town of Bristol, the Farmers' Co-op Creamery Association saw that it was necessary to enlarge the business in a special way and provided a three car refrigerator space. A day was set apart for a farmers' celebration for the re-opening of their creamery. The creamery officials provided 3,000 sandwiches and all the ice cream the people could eat. Cream fat is worth about 20c a pound more than margarine is worth.

Mr. Farmer brings in his butter fat and takes home margarine for home use. This saves the housewife the labor of making the butter supply for table needs. There is an excuse being offered by certain people that Canadian creameries could not carry on if margarine was put on sale here. If they can do it across the line they can do it here if they want. It is up to the citizens of Canada to say that we want margarine and we will get it when we show to some people what we are made of.

Your truly,
W. SEARLE.

CHARMAN-LEGGATT

A wedding of interest to relatives and friends in England as well as throughout the Valley and the Kootenays, took place on Monday when Ven. Archdeacon D. S. Catchpole officiated at the marriage of Miss Shirley Stevens, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Leggart, and Basil Winter Charman, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Charman, at the Church of St. Michael and All Angels.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Gordon Sargent, of Nelson, wore a simply designed gown of white silk clogu, with square neck, long sleeves, fitted bodice and flared skirt. She wore silk elbow-length mitts. Her hair was styled in a bun, and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Shirley Stevens was the bridesmaid, wearing a frock of ice blue taffeta and net. The fitted bodice, with short, puffed sleeves and ruffled sweetheart neckline, was gathered in front, the long, torso top, gathered into a crinoline skirt of net over taffeta. She wore blue net elbow mitts. From her halo headdress of blue net and velvet flowers, fell a shoulder-length veil. She wore a cameo pendant and carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Harold Shugg acted as best man and ushers were Mr. Roy Blackwood, Mr. Tom Carscadden and Master Barry Walker. Mrs. A. J. Pritchard was organist and played "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Harvest decorations filled the church, with white chrysanthemums and asters on the altar.

A reception for some 130 guests at the Parish Hall given by Mrs. F. B. Walker, the hostess wore a grey figured silk frock, black hat trimmed with pink feathers, black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Charman, the latter wearing a turquoise wool suit, black hat with black and turquoise feathers and black accessories. Her corsage was also of pink carnations.

Mr. Gordon Sargent toasted the bride whom he had known since she was a little girl. The groom responded with a few simple and sincere words. Mr. Carscadden proposed the toast to the bridesmaid and Mr. Harold Shugg replied.

Telegrams from an aunt in London, cousins in Folkestone, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kerr and Irene, Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shugg and Mrs. Margaret Shugg, Mrs. Bus Mepharm and Mrs. F. B. Walker, and the Major family, Victoria, were read.

The hall had been transformed by beautifully arranged flowers, urns, asters and Michauxia daisies and silver bowls of Talisman roses, the work of Mrs. Clare Bowman, Mrs. C. M. Horner, Mrs. A. V. Mepharm and Mrs. F. B. Walker.

Pouers were Mrs. Horner and Mrs. H. W. Stevens, while servers were Mrs. Roy Blackwood, Miss Joyce Carlson, Mrs. Lyman Dooley, Miss Margaret Shugg, Mrs. Bus Taggart and Miss Mary Walker. For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a grey wool tailored suit, with grey felt hat and grey accessories. She gave her bouquet to Mrs. Walker.

The couple left by car for the States. On their return they will live at the Jubilee Apartments. Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Dr. Ann Worthington, of Crescent Beach, near Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sargent and their infant son, Eric Robin, Miss Shirley Stevens, Vancouver; Mr. J. G. "Pat" Whistler, who flew from Trail, and Mr. Harold Shugg, Vancouver.

GILL-JOHNSON

Decorated with autumn flowers, St. Michael and All Angels' Church was the setting on October 4 for the May Johnson wedding of Olive Elsie May Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edith Johnson, to Arthur Andrew Gill, son of Mrs. Mary E. Gill, Ven. Archdeacon D. S. Catchpole performed the ceremony.

The bride's marriage by her elder brother Pherris Johnson looked lovely in white sweetheart satin with floor-length veil, and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses.

The Misses Patricia and Ramona Johnson attended their sister as bridesmaids and wore pink and blue sheer, respectively, with matching veils held by headresses. Small flowers, they carried bouquets of mums and gladioli.

Mr. Cecil Gill, brother of the groom, was best man, and Mr. Wally Johnson and Mr. Clark Gill acted as ushers.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother for some 50 guests. Archdeacon D. S. Catchpole proposed the toast to the bride.

For going away, the bride chose a grey taffeta suit and matching hat with white accessories. After a short honeymoon the couple will make their home in Kelowna.

ROSSI-GIORDANO
A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Wednesday, October 8, at 10:30 a.m. when Rev. W. B. McKenzie united in marriage Mary Giordano, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rossi, to Angelo Rossi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Rossi of Prince Rupert.

Given in marriage by her father, the attractive brunette bride looked beautiful in a white gown of flowered organza. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped front, and a full skirt fell into the flowing lines of a sweeping train, misted by her illusion veil which was caught by a beaded coronet headdress. She carried a bouquet of red carnations. Her only ornament was a double strand of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid, Miss Rose Herman, chose a gown of light pink nylon with fitted bodice, lace-trimmed skirt and a hat of blue velvet bodice, also featuring lace trimmings. She wore a tiny hat of blue and white feathers and her bouquet was of light pink gladioli.

The groom was ably supported by the bride's brother, Mr. Louis Giordano, and ushers were Mr. Dave Hewer, Mr. Raymond Giordano and Mr. Robert Giordano.

The bride's mother chose a grey crepe dress with matching off-the-face hat and wore a corsage of pink and white carnations.

A reception was held at the St. Joseph's Hall at 6 p.m., where some hundred guests sat down to a delicious supper prepared by the bride's father. Master of ceremonies was Mr. P. Capozzi and Father McKenzie proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom gracefully responded.

The happy couple will spend their honeymoon in Vancouver and Seattle and will later return to Prince Rupert, where they will reside.

OVER THE FENCE

"The existence of fair laws on conciliation, mediation and strike votes should be recognized as safeguarding labor's interests as well as those of the public."

"There's another quote for you," said the Old Timer this morning. "It makes sense to me."

"In my experience and observation, the ordinary hard-working member of a trade union needs protection against irresponsible and fiery trades union leaders just about as often as he needs it against greedy and arrogant employers. In fact in recent years it seems to me he has needed it even more."

"I'm not criticising all labor leaders, not by any manner of means. There are labor statesmen, both in small unions and the big boys. But there are some who carry a chip on their shoulders, and holler 'Strike!' whenever a trifling dispute arises. And good labor laws, based on the interest of labor and employers and the public — and don't forget the public has rights too — help to guard the interests of the workman who doesn't want strikes except as a last resort."

"Does the workman, or his wife and family, want to strike? You can bet your bottom dollar he doesn't. Then it seems to me he should be solidly behind a law calling for exhausting all the possible processes of conciliation and arbitration before any strike is called. Doesn't that make sense?"

(The views of the Old Timer are presented weekly in this newspaper under the sponsorship of the British Columbia Federation of Trade and Industry).

SKATING RINK PLANS FORMED AT PEACHLAND

PEACHLAND. Plans are under way for the erection of an open-air skating rink and curling rink in this community. At a public meeting held in the Municipal Hall recently, committees were appointed to look into the cost and construction of a skating rink.

A. E. Miller was named chairman, and F. Bradley, secretary. The committee is composed of L. Trautman, S. G. Dell, F. Bradley, W. E. Clements and D. A. K. Fulk.

Referring to the site for the skating rink, Mr. Trautman and Mr. Dell stated they both had looked over property owned by O. S. Keay, which they declared, was ideal for the purpose. The land is located three and a half miles up the hill, and is level enough to accommodate both the skating and curling rinks.

It is proposed to have the skating rink open, but a shelter will have to be put in the curling rink. The sun seldom touches the property in the winter, and it is thought there will be from two and a half to three months skating. Power lines have not been extended to the site, but it is thought gas lights could be used for the time being.

The committee was instructed to go into the cost of building the rink, and it was thought the district could be canvassed to take care of the initial cost.

Mr. Miller urged everyone to get behind the scheme, as he thought a skating rink would be appreciated by children.

The committee will report back to a meeting to be held in the Municipal Hall on Saturday, October 18.

Our Town

By JACK SCOTT

CLOSED MINDS

The people I fear and pity are those people in the middle class who voluntarily close their minds to knowledge. I say the middle class purely as an economic division and I name it because in their numbers is the power to create a better world.

In peace, the great bulk of these people seem to have no conception of their strength. In time of war they have clearly defined purpose in their sacrifice. They know only that it is for freedom, but they have always spurned the things that freedom offers.

They were revolted by the pictures of persecution of the Jews—seen in a picture magazine bought for amusement—but they, themselves, are insidious, ill-informed messengers of race hatred.

All of the things that other people have made sacrifices for—libraries, churches, freedom of speech—are brushed impatiently aside, unused and unappreciated. There are many of these people and there seems no way to reach them with truth. The freedom they use and cherish is only the freedom to close their eyes and ears and hearts, snugly sure of themselves amidst things of titanic mystery and beauty, supremely confident in their own thinking and action because they have explored no other.

And so long as they remain that way they chain progress as surely as an demagogue. For these people deliberately turn their backs on the great minds of the world. They look only for rumor, half-truth, scandal, sensation or pleasure, and because there are others like them on every side they never know the tragedy of their wasted lives.

They sit in awe before the man with a mass of fact, but assume that the fact and the reason is not for them except as spectators. They are not afraid of using their minds. They are too lazy and contented to use them.

These are the people who talk of social systems as vicious enemies, but think only of slums and hunger as necessity. By their own angry, uniformed, pseudo-wise muttering they breed the worst kind of society and perpetuate it.

It is not that they wait for a voice to lead them. They could comprehend no voice of understanding. Let such a voice say that the Negro and the white are brothers and they would turn on him. Only by the grace of God have they been protected from the voice of a Hitler in their own land. And they gave their lives to put him down.

I fear these people because there are more of them than most of us realize. I pity them because they have everything within reach to answer the half-informed, never-asked questions in their minds and they are good people, dangerous only because of their resignation to lives without thought.

Indeed many of them are proud of this accepted ignorance. They only know what they read in the papers, by God. They got it right from a guy who knows. They once called the Chinese "Chinks" and the Russians "Bolsheviks" and they do again.

They live in their own tight twisted little shells of hatred and ignorance in a world torn into bits that the things they shrugged aside may live on for those willing to reach out with their minds.

They are right here with us, people who have no conception of the new world they must help to make.

For speeding through a school zone in the city, A. Weisgarber appeared in city police court October 2 and was fined $5 and costs.

Riding his bike at night without a light brought a fine of $5 to J. Ryder when he appeared in city police court October 2. It was his second offense, the court was told.

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA

Specially Written for The Courier
By H. DENT HODGSON

OTTAWA (CP)—As October's frosts tightened the Northland, officials here were able to report that more solid progress has been made this year than before in moving the frontiers of civilization northward.

The "thin red line" of United States-Canadian borderland civilization was pushed as far towards the Arctic circle, with mining opening up new fields from Labrador to Norman Wells.

At the eastern end, exploration of the iron ore deposits on the Quebec-Labrador border had made progress, indicating possible construction of a rail line from the north shore of the St. Lawrence to the mines more than 300 miles north.

In Northern Quebec, prospecting and exploration around Chibougamau and Becheval Lake indicated another gold mining camp may be set up far north of the transcontinental railway.

In Ontario, a motor road had been built to Red Lake mining camp and exploratory work had been developing in the Patricia district.

In the West, general development held good. There were important discoveries in Manitoba, while in Yellowknife, in the Northwest Territories, three mines are in operation.

While secrecy still surrounded the activities of the government-owned Eldorado Company's pitchblende mine on Great Bear Lake, the plan was working to capacity to supply concentrates for its plant at Port Hope, Ont., where radium and uranium are recovered, the latter for atomic energy.

Reports of placer gold finds south of Aklavik and considerable mining in British Columbia, complete the continent-wide advance into the north paced by the government survey parties preparing geological information for the transportation problems add to the northern development difficulties.

Among them are the great distance involved and the fact that most pay loads are one-way affairs.

With the wheat crop harvested, and estimated at a total of 352,000,000 bushels, Canada found it had prospects of only about 30,000,000 bushels to send to the lucrative world market.

The world market pays about $2.90 a bushel for Canadian wheat, while domestic requirements and United Kingdom contract shipments run much lower, with the U.K. price at $1.55 a bushel for the current crop year.

For the 1948-49 crop year, however, Canada apparently had struck a bargain with the Dominions, for 600,000,000-bushel contract with the United Kingdom, the 1948-49 year crop had been earmarked for 140,000,000 bushels at $1.25 a bushel.

Simultaneous announcements from London and Ottawa said the next year price would be $2 a bushel.

For the current year, Canada is expected to ship her contracted 160,000,000 bushels to the United Kingdom and use approximately 180,000,000 bushels herself. This will leave little more than 30,000,000 bushels for the Canadian Wheat Board to make money on.

Canada was finally elected to the security council of the United Nations. To Mr. St. Laurent of the external affairs department it was less of an honor and more of a responsibility.

"The government will be faced as never before," said the minister, "with the necessity of making decision on major questions affecting the peace and security of the world. These questions will arise from situations having their origins far from our shores. At first glance these might not appear to affect directly the interests of the Canadian people. In fact, however, as these far away events are factors in world security, they are of first importance to the future of this country."

It was almost a year since the Polish treasure hunt, a sensational affair with international complications, arose in the capital. The story had broken at a cocktail party when Polish embassy officials disclosed they were seeking treasures of untold value which had been brought to Canada by the Polish government in-exile and hidden away in the vaults about the country.

Polish government officials appeared to the Canadian government, which maintained it was powerless since the treasures were hidden without its knowledge and without its supervision. The treasures, packed in 34 cases, are mainly ancient tapestries and other museum pieces which have mainly sentimental value. Warsaw has indicated Poland will send international lawyers to Canada to work on the case.

All the Canadian officials would say was, "We don't know where the treasure is located. And even if we did, the Canadian government could not go in and take it."

MANY TOURISTS VISIT PROVINCE

During the first eight months of 1947, a total of 50,438 vehicles entered British Columbia under travelers' vehicle permits, as compared with 127,646 during the same period of 1946, it was announced by the Hon. L. H. Eyres, Minister of Trade and Industry.

Mr. Eyres stated that these figures represent only the cars coming into the province through border customs ports; they take no cognizance of the huge volume of travel by bus, railroad and steamship nor of the cars which come through the inter-provincial boundary.

Steps are being taken to make a comprehensive check of the inter-provincial traffic and it is hoped in this way to obtain a much more complete picture of what recreational travel means to British Columbia.

HOUSING COSTS VS LUMBER COSTS

REMEMBER the days back in 1937 when a five-room house could be built for about $4300? Today that house costs around $8400. And because most houses are built mainly with lumber in British Columbia, lumber gets most of the blame for the increase.

Actually, softwood lumber represents only a little more than one-eighth of the cost of the $8400 house.

Study the costs as here set out from carefully-kept records of average experience

Shortage of building materials have added to the contractor's costs. They have reduced his turnover in a year and have made his time and overhead chargeable to a smaller number of units completed.

This situation should gradually improve now that free market conditions have been restored in building materials.

Lumber for an $8400 house today costs 13.7% of the total as against 14.17% in 1937. The cost of vacant lots, of labor, plumbing, electrical work, painting, etc., etc., have all climbed.

COST OF LUMBER IS NOT THE MAIN REASON FOR THE HIGH COST OF HOMEBUILDING. IT IS ONLY A MINOR ITEM.

A CENTURY BEGINS TO ROLL—Commemorating the historic day 100 years ago when railway service was inaugurated on the Island of Montreal, R. C. Vaughan, C.M.G., president, Canadian National Railways, presents to the City of Montreal an oil painting by the well known Canadian artist, A. Sherriff Scott, R.C.A. On Mr. Vaughan's left are His Excellency, Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, and Mayor Camille Houde, O.B.E. The table decoration, in sharp contrast with the historic scene in the painting, is a model of a modern CNR train.

Your Teeth and Your Dentist

This is the first of a series of articles written by Kelowna dentists on the care of teeth. In view of the fact there has been a noticeable increase during the past few years of teeth decay, especially among children, the articles are very timely. In future, they will appear every Thursday.

Prevention is, of course, better than treatment. However, the dentist can do little beyond giving advice, and the success of any program of prevention depends almost entirely on the faithfulness with which it is followed by the patient. Much can be done to prevent dental decay. Since dental decay is principally the result of food accumulation on the teeth, this accumulation should always be kept at a minimum. This may be done in several ways.

First: Whenever possible, teeth should be brushed immediately after any sweet or sticky foodstuffs are eaten. Brushing the teeth before breakfast contributes nothing to the prevention of dental decay, but is recommended for refreshing the mouth before eating.

Second: Whenever possible foods with a low content of readily fermentable carbohydrate should be substituted for those containing much sugar or refined flour.

Third: In choosing foods, preference should be given to those which do not adhere to the teeth. Some foods such as fruits and vegetables, leave the mouth feeling clean; others, such as cookies and chocolate, stick to the teeth for a long time after they have been eaten. It is not necessary to list the sticky and the non-adhesive foods, because one can only tell which is which by observation in his own mouth. It is worth mentioning, however, that raw vegetables and fruits, particularly apples, not only do not stick to the teeth, but chewing them actually helps remove the sticky foods from about the teeth.

Indeed, eating an apple or some raw vegetables after a meal or after partaking of candy and other foods containing fermentable carbohydrates is a good way to clean the teeth. Such measures are of oral hygiene, frequently be carried out, particularly in children, where tooth-brushing is not possible. It is of paramount importance to choose non-sticky foods for between-meal snacks and, whenever possible, to eat and drink with such foods. If candy must be eaten, and it is almost impossible to deny it to children, it should be eaten only at the termination of a satisfactory meal.

Fourth: The frequency of eating is important. It is during the first hour or so after eating that bacteria form most acids, from food adhering to the teeth. If one has frequent meals, eats sweets, drinks sodas, and chews gum containing sugar every waking hour, it is obvious that bacteria will be forming acid almost continuously and that, as a result, the teeth will be under continuous attack. If on the other hand one eats only three times a day, there will be only a few hours each day, during which conditions conducive to tooth destruction will exist, and these hours, moreover, can be reduced to negligible periods if the teeth are cleaned or cleansing foods are eaten at the end of each meal.

These procedures, which are not really difficult to follow, will help materially in the prevention of dental decay. Only when the teeth are very poorly formed or when other abnormal conditions exist in the mouth are these measures liable to fail completely. Such eventualities cannot be guarded against entirely, but their importance can be reduced to a minimum by keeping in the best possible state of health. This requires care as to the adequacy of the diet in respect to vitamins, minerals and other food elements, and equally important, it demands that attention be paid to the body's need for adequate hygienic care and rest. It is foolish to imagine that health will be restored by the addition of this or that substance to the diet if these other factors are neglected. Your physician and dentist should be relied upon for advice in this field and not your radio or newspaper.

The final and very important safeguard to which the teeth are entitled has already been indicated. It is that they be examined periodically so that small defects can be detected and remedied before they become too large. The teeth, are examined only when they give trouble, it is almost certain that the process of destruction will be well on its way. Therefore, your dentist should be visited periodically even though there is no reason to suspect any dental trouble. Such a habit will, in the long run, save trouble and expense and is an essential part of any preventive program.

WANT DENTAL SERVICE GIVEN

Upon the recommendation of Al-derman R. P. Walrod, the city will endeavor to obtain dental services for social service cases under the same arrangement with the provincial government as medical services are provided.

This was agreed at a recent council meeting, after Mr. Walrod said there are now four urgent cases on the city's hands. Mr. Walrod said condition of teeth has a direct bearing upon the health of an individual, and thought that some move should be made to have the provincial government pay for part of the expense.

NORTH OKANAGAN VALLEY NEWS ROUNDUP

TWO VERNON PEOPLE had a close brush with death as the hunting season opened recently. Wilk how far and on what basis has not been suggested by them or by the city council.

Most merchants now are agreed that licences will go up again, but just how far and on what basis has not been suggested by them or by the city council.

AT KAMLOOPS, the city council does not intend to ask for more rent from veterans occupying wartime houses—that is unless provincial minister of municipal affairs, Hon. R. C. MacDonald forces its hand. Although construction of 25 badly-needed homes already is in progress, the city council bylaw authorizing agreement with Central Mortgage and Housing hasn't been approved by the provincial authority. The work, as it were, is illegal; the original agreement between the city and the crown-company is, actually, ineffective until it is approved by the lieutenant-governor-in-council which is another way of saying until it is approved by the cabinet. And it won't be approved by the cabinet until Mr. MacDonald's department so recommends.

VERNON RESIDENTS want more street lights, less road dust, cement sidewalks and refund of taxes charged on a building that had been burned down most of the year. These demands were urged in petitions recently placed before the city council. After a resident had frightened off a prowler in his Girouard Street home, citizens along the dark street south of Bernard Avenue, renewed efforts begun two years ago to get better street lighting in the neighborhood. The problem was turned over to the B.C. Power Commission with a strong recommendation on the need of more light.

VERNON CITY COUNCIL for the past three months has had in mind a revision of trades licence fees charged businesses in the city, but so far there has been no action toward an expected increase in rates. Vernon's licence fees were last revised about ten years ago, J. W. Wright, city clerk, recalled that it occasioned much discussion and disagreement.

SWIVEL CHAIR FARMING

By "Agricola"

Queer fellows, these scientists! Who but a Doctor of Philosophy would spend all day sitting on an apple box sifting soil to find out how many worms it contains. This is what I found Dr. Kenneth King doing when I visited the Experimental Station recently. Dr. King has charge of the laboratory, located at Victoria, for control of field crop insects. I spent a few minutes chatting with him and the following is the gist of our conversation.

Agrologist: Good morning, Dr. King, and what might you be doing this fine day?

Dr. King: I am sifting this soil to find out how many worms it contains.

A. You are going fishing, I presume.

Dr. K.: There is nothing that I would like to do better than spend a day fishing. However, it is not angle worms, but wireworms, for which I am looking this morning.

I might explain that I am endeavoring to ascertain the wireworm population in this soil on which Billy May has had difficulty in raising vegetables this past few years. I plan to test the efficiency of two soil fumigants as a means of killing off wireworms with which this soil is infested. The first step is to count then, number of wireworms in cubic foot samples of soil taken from various locations in the plot. We will then apply the soil fumigant and after a day or two make another count to ascertain how many of the wireworms have been killed.

A. What soil fumigants are you using?

Dr. K.: I am testing ethylene dibromide and benzene hexachloride. A. I should think that the names themselves would frighten any self-respecting wireworms. Are there any common names by which these materials are known?

Dr. K. Ethylene dibromide is being sold under the trade name of Dowfume W-40 and the other material is sometimes called Gammexane or 6-6-6.

A. How are these materials applied?

Dr. K. The Dowfume W-40 is dissolved in kerosene and applied in liquid form. We are using a simple gadget which applies the material during the operation of ploughing. The Gammexane is put up in dust form. We are spreading this material with a fertilizer spreader. It is applied on the surface of the ground and immediately ploughed under. Both these vaporize in the soil, the resulting vapor is very lethal to wireworms.

A. Could I use either of the materials in my own vegetable garden?

Dr. K. Yes, the Dowfume W-40 can be applied with a hand applicator. However, where this procedure is followed the commercial product should be diluted with three times its volume of kerosene. Where the Gammexane is used in small gardens, it can be spread on the surface of the soil at the rate of 75 pounds per acre and lightly spaded in.

A. Do these materials have any injurious effect on plants?

Dr. K. Yes, there is some danger of injuring plants unless proper precautions are taken. Seeding should not be done until at least a week after the Dowfume has been applied. On the other hand, Gammexane can be used in gardens where crops have already been planted. This material, however, has a very objectionable odor. In fact it stinks! Furthermore, it gives root vegetables an undesirable flavor. Accordingly it should not be used where root crops such as potatoes and carrots are to be grown.

All of which indicates that gardeners who have been plagued for years by wireworms now have practical methods for dealing with these pests. Apparently entomologists are of some use after all. Furthermore the fact that Dr. King parked his car in the lot in the World Series over his car radio indicates that he is quite human in spite of being a Doctor of Philosophy.

SAYS AQUATIC CANNOT AFFORD NEW BUILDINGS

President W. F. Anderson Declares Community Effort Is Needed to Finance Project

GOOD SEASON

Inadvisable to Spend Large Sums of Money on Present Buildings

Dr. W. F. Anderson, president of the Kelowna Aquatic Association, told the Aquatic directors at their annual dinner at the Royal Anne Hotel on October 2, it would need a "special community effort" to finance new buildings for the Aquatic. He said the association was in no position now and he thought it never would be in a position to consider building on its own. He believed the present buildings were not worth spending large sums on for improvements.

The president lauded the work of the directors as he reported the past season as "successful." He turned over to the Aquatic a framed pictorial of the highlights of the 1947 Kelowna Regatta.

Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games praised this year's workings of the directorate as "perfect organization" and said the city was happy in the wonderful way the Aquatic had been run. He assured the directors the sanitary arrangements at the Aquatic would be corrected by next summer, with the laying of sewers, due to start next spring.

R. P. MacLean, president of the Kelowna Board of Trade, said the board viewed the Regatta as one of Kelowna's greatest publicity mediums. He said the mayor deserved a lot of credit for playing the role of ideal host to the many Regatta visitors.

"Save Community Spirit"

The board president appealed to the directorate not to let the Regatta become a one-man show. "Keep the directors and outside committees working on it to save the community spirit," he said.

Broadcast Show?

J. W. B. Browne, who told the directors and guests he had attended all but one of the last 33 Regattas, said he had convinced the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation that the Kelowna Regatta could be broadcast over the network. The CBC previously had used inadequate facilities as an excuse, Mr. Browne said. The facilities remain the same, but he thinks the CBC will carry the 1948 show.

R. G. Rutherford, honorary treasurer and auditor for the Regatta, reported a net profit of $2,850 on the 1947 Regatta and handed a check for that amount over to President Anderson. "We (his company) will continue to serve the Regatta on a community basis as long as it is run on a community basis," Mr.

Rutherford said. Dick Parkinson, chairman of the Regatta committee of the Aquatic, praised this year's committee as the "most active and conscientious" he has ever worked with.

Praise Jaycees

The directors were high in their praise for the work done by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, particularly in connection with the Laying of the Lake piquant.

Others who spoke briefly included: Keith Duggan, president of the Kelowna Rowing Club, Miss Cecile Scantland, president of the Okanagan Swimming Club, and J. Coops, of the Kelowna Yacht Club.

Peter Joe, Westbank Indian, with two previous convictions of intoxication this year was fined $15 and costs of $3.75 when he appeared in city police court last week on a charge of being found unlawfully in a state of intoxication.

JACKSON-ARCHIBALD

Ven, Archdeacon Desmond Catchpole officiated on Saturday afternoon at a pretty wedding which united Dolores Grace, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Archibald, and Edward Jackson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson, at the Church of St. Michael and All Angels.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gownned in broadened satin styled with long sleeves, sweetheart neckline, fitted, back-buttoning bodice and crinoline skirt. Her net veil, forming a train, was caught to her head with a coronet of pleated net and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of red roses. Her pearls and matching earrings were a gift of the groom.

The matron-of-honor, Mrs. George Reid, sister of the bride, wore a frock of mauve taffeta with fitted bodice, sweetheart neck and tiny, puff sleeves. Her matching mitts were of net, and her tiny hat was of lace, ribbon and flowers and she carried yellow gladioli.

The bridesmaids were Miss Velma Cassils and Miss Helen Jackson, sister of the groom. Miss Cassils' gown of white broadened organdy over rose taffeta, was fashioned with low, rounded neck, tiny puff sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt. She wore white silk gloves and carried a bouquet of mauve gladioli. Her coronet headpiece was made of ruffled, pink net and flowers, with side bow, and she wore a gold pendant belonging to her mother's family.

Miss Jackson's frock of similar design was of pink broadened nylon over pink taffeta and her headpiece resembled that of Miss Cassils'. She wore a necklace of multicolored shot beads, and her bouquet was of mauve gladioli.

The best man was Mr. Nels Hoyum and ushers were Mr. George Reid of Bannockburn, and Mr. Robin Broad, of Vancouver.

The church had been beautifully decorated with masses of Michaelmas daisies and chrysanthemums, by Miss Rita Bennett.

Mrs. A. J. Pritchard was the organist and during the signing of the register Mr. Ernie Burnett sang "I'll Walk Beside You".

Some 60 guests gathered at the Willow Inn for a reception. Mrs. Rueben Archibald, wearing a powder-blue wool dressmaker suit, small blue hat, and darker blue accessories, with corsage of red carnations, helped receive the guests with Mrs. Jackson. The latter was dressed in a grey, chalk-stripe suit, with grey hat and black accessories, and also wore a corsage of red carnations.

The toast to the bride and groom was given by Capt. H. P. Coombes, of Vernon, uncle of the groom. The toast to the mothers was proposed by Mr. W. A. C. Bennett and the bridesmaids were toasted by Mr. Nels Hoyum.

Ernie Burnett, accompanied by Allen Crewe, sang "Dune" and "Through the Years."

Telegrams were read from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jacobs, Barry, Ontario, and Mr. Allan Jackson, Carnduff, Saskatchewan. Mrs. Joyce Austin sang "I Love You Truly."

About one hundred guests gathered at the Willow Inn for the reception. The bride's table with the three tiered cake and vases of roses was tastefully arranged.

Mrs. Bert Woods and Mrs. W. Hince poured tea, while the serving girls were Miss Fay Conn, Ivy Rogers, Elma Lehnner, Mrs. Craig Brodie, Mrs. Harold Handlen and Miss Dorothy Perry.

Mr. W. Wilcox proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

The bride chose a grey tailored suit with black accessories for travelling. The honeymoon will be spent in the U.S. and on their return, Mr. and Mrs. Conn will make their home in Kelowna.

At the suggestion of Mrs. A. Stewart, the bride's bouquet was sent to Mrs. Ferguson at the Kelowna General Hospital.

The dainty little bride looked lovely in her dress of ivory satin with a sweetheart neckline. A coronet of braided white velvet held her veil in place. She carried a bouquet of red roses and her only ornament was a double string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Winnie Buchtrall, the bridesmaid, wore a very pretty blue nylon, dress with a bandeau of matching flower and veil. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Kelowna Appeals To Artist

Yet another artist has come to child during holidays, and her father, L. A. Hutton, has been coming here for the pleasant shooting for some 25 years.

Mrs. Lamont, formerly Gwen Hutton, of Toronto, graduated from the Ontario College of Art, where her chief teacher was Arthur Lismer. She also had the benefit of learning from Emanuel Hahn, J. E. H. MacDonald, J. W. Beatty, Yvonne McKague Houser and Rody Kinney Courtice. Pupils used to visit the studios of Lawrence Harris and A. Y. Jackson, and receive encouragement. Isabel McLaughlin was a contemporary of Mrs. Lamont.

Theatre design and book illustrations are specialties of Mrs. Lamont. She did the pictures for a children's book of historical plays for Dents. Last winter she did mural posters for a children's luncheon in Maple Grove School, Vancouver. She did the designs, costumes, masks and wigs for "A Midsummer Night's Dream" for the St. James Players Guild. The Vancouver church has put on a yearly Shakespearean play for the past 25 years.

The Lamonts have come to Kelowna for the change of climate and plan to plant a domestic orchard on their new property. Mrs. Lamont used to visit Kelowna as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horn.

2 POLITICAL POT STARTS

mentioned as probable Liberal candidates in the by-election, while A. K. Loyd and Alderman Jack Horn are mooted as probable Conservative candidates along with W. A. C. Bennett, O. L. Jones, it is understood, has been approached to run under the C.C.F. banner.

Mr. Loyd, on being questioned as to whether he would be interested in running under Conservative colors, pointed out that he is not a member of any political party. He said he would probably make a statement at a later date.

It. P. MacLean, publisher of the Kelowna Courier, when informed that the Capital News had reported him as a possible Liberal candidate, stated that he had never considered the matter, that he had never been approached, and that if he had been, the answer would have been a definite and emphatic "NO."

A by-election must be held within eight months. A writ for the election must be issued within six months after a vacancy occurs and the election must then be held within 45 days.

A new voters' list must also be compiled, and this will entail a lot of work, as the constituency takes in all the territory from north of Enderby to the boundary.

BOARD AGAIN ASKED TO LIFT RESTRICTIONS

Rutland Delegation Request Trade Board Use of Land for Airport

A Rutland delegation waited upon the executive of the Kelowna Board of Trade on Tuesday to ask the Board to again reopen the question of lifting the restrictions under which some seventy-three acres were given for park purposes and not for commercial purposes, including an airport.

At the time of the gift, it was stipulated that the property was being given for park purposes and not for commercial purposes, including an airport. When approached last month, with a request that the restrictions be lifted, the Board replied that it would consider the matter after the municipality of Rutland is formed and a true picture of the opinion of the people of Rutland could be obtained.

The interested Rutland group recently took a position which the Board warned them previously could not be considered as it did not conform with the stipulations of the previously passed resolution outlining the Board's stand on the matter. On Tuesday the Rutland delegation urged that in view of the vote on this referendum—359 affirmative to 10 negative—the feelings of the people of Rutland had been conclusively demonstrated.

A. W. Gray was chief spokesman of the delegation and was supported by C. Agar, of Okanagan Airlines, and E. Reeser, president of the Rutland Board of Trade.

Erect Hangars
Mr. Agar pointed out that his company was anxious to erect hangars on the former Board of Trade property in order that their operations in the area might be facilitated. He stated that in his opinion the Ellison field would always remain the airport of the district while the Rutland field would make an excellent air park.

Mr. Reeser felt that the erection of hangars on a portion of the property would not prevent the remainder from being used as a park.

R. P. MacLean, president of the Kelowna Board of Trade, assured the delegation their request would be given every consideration and an answer would be forthcoming within a week.

Before the delegation left, R. White expressed the opinion that if the property is to be used for commercial purposes, some financial consideration should be given those who had held the property and turned it over for public use. He expressed the belief that a round table discussion of the whole matter might be of value.

In answer to a question, he stated that his remarks were purely personal and not the opinion of the delegation.

It is understood that the executive of the board has taken no action on the Rutland request, pending a discussion on the subject at the general meeting of the board tonight.

STUDENTS HOLD HI-Y FASHION SHOW WEDNESDAY

Hi-Y clubs, active throughout the province since 1934, were augmented last spring by the Kelowna branch, first in the Valley, under the presidency of its organizer, Valerie James. The club's name is derived from High School Y.W.C.A. and members work for the betterment of their school.

Kelowna's Hi-Y is putting on its first public money-raising "do" Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. This will be a fashion show with some 50 costumes contributed by enthusiastic store managers, modelled by school girls. There will also be musical entertainment. Proceeds will go toward buying silverware for school banquets, instead of renting or borrowing the articles as in the past. A homecooking auction provided a mirror for the girls' washroom.

SHIELDS NOW SEES RELIGIOUS WAR

WINDSOR—An outbreak of religious civil war in Canada between the Roman Catholic and Protestant churches was forecast by Dr. T. T. Shields, pastor of Jarvis St. Baptist Church of Toronto, in an address at Patterson Collegiate.

With the gradual development of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada, Dr. Shields said Protestant liberties will be removed and then it will come to a major decision between the two religious factions. Civil war was the likely conclusion, he said, because the Protestants would never bow to the decisions of Rome. Dr. Shields claimed that many departments of the government were "loaded" with Roman Catholics, who, if there were civil strife, would rise up as a solid front. He charged the Vatican instigated the last two wars and that it again was trying to "force war on Britain, France and the United States."

"I have no use for Russian idealism," he said. "I believe in individualism, but I consider Russia the most slandered country in the world today."

FRENCH SEAMEN TIE UP SHIPPING

PARIS—A strike of 40,000 merchant seamen and shore workers for wage increases halted virtually all shipping in French ports today as the government strove desperately to cope with Paris' crippling transport strike. One-tenth of Paris' subway workers, represented by two unions, voted out and their three-day strike despite appeals of the communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor to stand firm.

ISLAND FINANCES BEST EVER

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland — Newfoundland's economic situation came under review today by a national convention as a report went before the 44-man body describing the island's financial position as the strongest in history.

CANCEL POST-WEDDING DRIVE

LONDON—Plans for Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten driving through the streets in a state carriage after their wedding on November 20 have been cancelled as a safety precaution. The Royal family decided on the cancellation after being informed by the cabinet that Scotland Yard and the home office felt such a drive involved risks, though "doubtless remote" which should not be taken.

LAUNCHES BOAT ON BIRTHDAY

BELFAST—Princess Margaret, younger daughter of the King and Queen, celebrated her 17th birthday today by launching the 28,500 ton liner Edinburgh Castle, the first official duty she has carried out alone. The launching proceeded smoothly and the princess described it as a "wonderful experience."

Games.
"During the war, we in Canada were subject to a few trifling restrictions with respect to our diet. They were not restrictions at all compared with what the people of the United Kingdom had to endure. As soon as the war finished, we chafed at our restrictions until they were all or practically all removed. We now enjoy a wide range of living far in excess of our pre-war standard. On the contrary, in the U.K. restrictions more rigid than during the war period, have become necessary. They have had to tighten their belts more and more and still the end is not in sight. How are they going to celebrate the event? They have the spirit and plenty of it but they lack anything with which to put a little variety into their celebration."

And what could be more fitting than that we, a part of the Empire or Commonwealth, living in luxury, should demonstrate that we have heard of the saying that it is more blessed to give than to receive. What a gracious gesture the princess has herself shown in her request that any gifts which the people of the overseas empire should take the form of food that will be distributed to the people of Britain. And you can rest assured that the distribution will be in competent hands who will see that it goes where it is most needed.

Needed Gift
"Now you have an opportunity to show in a really big way—something that you know is really needed and that will be really appreciated. You become a partner of the princess herself in a gift to the needy people of the United Kingdom. You have done so much for us and who considered nothing too good for the Canadian boys and girls of the services during their stay in the Old Land. They shared of their meagre rations with us. Surely we should now share with them of our plenty."

"No one is asked for any large amount. Just give what you feel you would like to give, and feel that you have a part in the recovery. What a call to every house in the city. If they should miss you you can turn in your contribution at any store or bank and get your receipt. Your name will be added to the list of those contributing and will be forwarded to Her Royal Highness. The sooner you make your contribution, the sooner the committee will know the amount at their disposal, and the sooner they will be in a position to make the necessary arrangements for packaging, steamship space, etc."

Alderman Jack Horn, in a radio address last Saturday night declared:
"On the 20th of November, a charming young lady will stand at the altar in Westminster Abbey to be joined in wedlock to a young man who will share with her the future task of co-relating and inspiring the British Commonwealth."

"The miracle of modern radio, and the stress and strain of the recent years of conflict, have combined to make all citizens of the Commonwealth feel that this girl, H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth, is one of us, one of our own family—and to make most of us feel that we would like in some way to convey to her our good wishes for the future and some assurance of our continuing support in the years ahead."

"To make possible for us to achieve this aim, the Mayor of Kelowna has arranged for a gift to be made, by voluntary contribution, from all interested citizens in this district. The gift will, at the expressed request of H.R.H. take the form of food for those noble people of the British Isles who gave so much to defend our way of life, and who are still living under conditions resulting from the war, which we in this opulent land would not tolerate."

Express Feelings

"This is an opportunity for you to express your feelings to the bride, and at the same time, help those who need help so desperately, and so eminently deserve it."

"Arrangements have been made to receive cash contributions at most stores in the district, at Kelowna City Offices, Board of Trade and Banks. In addition, farmers may advise their packagings, if they desire a contribution to be made in

BALLOON FOUND DURING SEARCH

Identifying portion of what is believed to be an American barrage balloon has been turned over to the local police. A three-foot square has several letters and figures on it and the date March 1942.

Staff Sgt. W. J. Thomson said it had been brought in from the Kettle River country. It was first spotted from the air by Andy Duncan and Horace Simpson during the search for Nick Husch, 17-year-old Rutland youth who was missing in the Greyhounds for over three days last week.
